Letter from the Editor

Keeping the faith

Thanks to the coronavirus pandemic and the resultant lockdown, the film industry came to a screeching halt in March last year. And our filmmakers, our film stars found themselves completely at sea for sometime. Then, they kind of collectively realised that if they're finding it tough, it must be hundred times tougher for the common populace to cope with this nightmarish scenario. They then set about sending support both in the form of money and supplies but also in the form of positive messages. Somehow, we survived the worst and slowly, by the end of the year, limped back to the new normal.

That we were apprehensive about how we were going to conduct our main Bollywood event is an understatement.

Nevertheless, we decided to go ahead and face the fears rather than doing nothing and speculating about them. Fortune favours the brave, as they say. Despite the mandatory tests, social distancing norms and the phased pattern of the awards, we pulled it off. Three cheers to my entire team and to everyone involved in giving birth to this mini miracle.

The event started at 2 pm in the afternoon. And that was the first hurdle. As the denizens of the film industry are notorious for keeping their own timings. But we needn't have worried as the esprit de corps kicked in. Knowing that through this ceremony they were signalling an all is well message out there, the industry folks turned up on time. And the 66th Vimal Elaichi Filmfare Awards 2021 were on.

We lost many illustrious stars last year. One of the brightest among them was Irrfan Khan. He used to make each nuance of every character he played stand out. One could vouch for the basic humanity of the characters he played and their believability, be it in Haasil (2003), which brought him mainstream fame, Maqbool (2004), where he touched Shakespearean heights with his performance, Paan Singh Tomar, where he looked like a Chambal legend or The Lunchbox (2013) where he played a middle-aged man in love. Irrfan was our Lifetime Achievement Award winner this year. His son Babil collected it on his late father's behalf and the industry greeted him as one of their own. There were only kind words and pats of encouragement for the youngster, who wants to carve a career in showbiz.

I missed the booming baritone of Bachchan saab, who couldn't attend due to medical reasons, and who won the Best Actor (Critics') award for his performance in Gulabo Sitabo. Turn the pages to know more about the drama and the madness of this year's magnum opus...

Here come the hotsteppers! Meet the trend makers and breakers spotted on the 66th Vimal Elaichi Filmfare Awards 2021 red carpet

FASHION PARADE

The sparkling red carpet was laid out, the paparazzi gathered to click the perfect picture and the stars arrived with their arm candy, the mandatory designer mask and a sanitiser spritzer. The 66th Vimal Elaichi Filmfare Awards 2021 was a celebration of the movies in the new normal. A social event of such stature saw celebrities dressed to the nines and yet maintain social distance. Tuxedos, princess gowns, stunning ensembles... the runway was an amalgamation of grace, style and couture...

DRESSED TO KILL

THE STARS GRACED THE 66TH VIMAL ELAICHI FILMFARE AWARDS 2021 IN THEIR SARTORIAL BEST. ANALITA SETH ANALYSES THEIR FASHION GAME

Amruta Khanvilkar opted for an Indo-Western look with a dramatic pleated red saree by Tasuvure. Her gelled back hair, smokey eyes and the minimal diamond jewellery elevated the look to perfection. Sara Ali Khan kept it icy cool in a blue tulle number by Aadnevik. Her voluminous look was topped with a messy ponytail, a pair of glittery heels and a light smokey eye. Taapsee Pannu, who looked like a dream on the red carpet, made sure her outfit was as bright as her night. The actor donned an ombre pink and mauve gown with a soft bow on the back by Zara Umrigar and finished it up with a headband and scrappy silver heels. Sanjana Sanghi made quite an edgy statement in her custom Amit Aggarwal creation. A structural piece in dull metallic grey, Sanjana was a breath of fresh air amidst the trail gowns and dramatic looks. Talking of trails, Divya Khosla Kumar turned up the heat in a mauve Atelier Zuhra gown. The embellished gown that turned into a feathered trail shone at the red carpet.

Tamannaah Bhatia in her Benu Sehgal gown bedazzled everyone. The actor strutted like a million bucks in a princess gown, exuding her unmatched charm at the red carpet. Nora Fatehi made a fierce appearance in Georges Chakra and got all heads turning for her at the event. The lady opted for a golf metallic outfit and hit a hole-in-one with her minimal make-up, emerald jewellery and her undying sass. Sunny Leone sure loves white for her red carpet appearances and we're not complaining. The stunner picked a L'mane number with poker straight hair, blush make-up and some diamond jewellery. Needless to say, she stole the show. Christmas arrived a little early for us, as a very merry Mithila Palkar turned up in a mistletoe green gown by Sharnita Nandwana for the night. Retro waves in her hair and minimal jewellery, she was a vision in green at the red carpet. Another break from the usual was Alaya F, who arrived wearing a Gaurav Gupta number. The blush pink short dress complemented her vibe and made her stand out in style on the big night.

Only a few days ago, Amruta Subhash attended the Filmfare Awards (Marathi) wearing a saree previously owned by Smita Patil. She made yet another appearance in a nostalgic piece that was gifted to her by the late actor's sister, Anita Patil. Needless to say, we were in awe of how well she pulled it off. Another striking appearance with a dash of nostalgia was singer Nikhita Gandhi in her 'nana dadu's' pantsuit. She added oomph to her look with her long pink dreadlocks.

Anupria Goenka looked ravishing in a sequin number by Neeta Lulla. She topped the glittering gown with a high-brained tail and light make-up. First-timer on the red carpet, Akansha Ranjan Kapoor went all out blush in her Hala Al Mamari gown. She kept her make-up and hair simple and quite relatable for girls looking to go glam even in the summers. Floating like a pixie, Dhvani Bhanushali radiated grace in her Mondelifestyle dress. The plunging neckline and the feature plume detailing, made her look cute and sexy at the same time. Aahana Kumra strutted down the red carpet in a well-fitted Ambika Lal gown. The classic fit, perfected with her curly locks and the thigh-high slit were quite eye-catching. Maanvi Gagroo rocked a loose silhouette number by Vetemour for the night. She finished off the look with statement earrings and a contrasting cute pink heart bag.

DAISY SHAH

Daisy Shah attended her first ever Filmfare red carpet in a stunning lavender number by Amir Gupta. The bodycon creation with a feathered bustier made her look like a mermaid on the red carpet. Working an all-black jumpsuit with cape sleeves, Elnaaz Norouzi's L'effet outfit was a hit for the evening. The red lip and Hollywood wave for the hairdo worked well for her.

Urvashi Rautela exuded the classic Jessica Rabbit vibe in her ruby Monisha Jaisingh gown. The fitting-silhouette, her long straight tresses and her subtle make-up, all worked for the lady. Making fashion look comfortable, Tillotama Shome opted for a co-ord by Norblack Norwhite and glamourised the look with a stunning necklace. Her tightly braided hair and kohl-ed eyes added to the perfection of this semi-formal look. Serving us a princess moment, Sonnalli Seygal dolled up in a hot pink gown by Neetu Rohra. She finished off the look with a ponytail and ear cuffs. Shriya Pilgaonkar's ensemble by Bloni was a dream outfit. The lady in her satin pantsuit with heavy curls and chocolate make-up looked stunning.

Whoever said men's fashion is limited, hasn't seen the Filmfare red carpet yet. The dapper Freddy Daruwala got heads turning in a jet black bandhgala by Manish Malhotra. With his black loafer and pulled back hair, Freddy rocked the fusion wear for the big night.

JAIDEEP AHLAWAT

Our first host for the evening, Riteish Deshmukh added a bit of jazz to a classic tuxedo by Jewellyn Alvares. A crisp bow tie and the classic combo made the star shine bright. Talking of oomph, Vardhan Puri turned up in a quirky striped rose gold blazer with black pants for the night. He made the unconventional ensemble work to perfection. Cool and comfy, Rajat Barmecha kept it semi-casual in a black blazer and a t-shirt. He finished off his look with chunky white sneakers. We couldn't keep our eyes off Pratik Gandhi in his all black tuxedo by Adani Creation. Vintage and striking, Pratik looked like a million bucks that night. It doesn't get cooler than Jaideep Ahlawat casually walking down the red carpet in a well-fitted maroon blazer, a crisp white shirt and black pants. The star looked dashing in the ensemble topped with his ponytail.

MANISH PAUL

SAHIL SALATHIA

AMAAL MALLIK

AYUSHMANN KHURRANA

RAJKUMMAR RAO

Our third host for the evening Manish Paul was both humour and style personified during the awards night. He opted for an all-black tuxedo with a contrasting scarlet bow tie to finish the look.

Sahil Salathia stood out in the crowd in his plaid-green suit with a white shirt. He accessorised the look with some funky jewellery and manicured black nails. We sure dug this OOTD. Amaal Mallik kept it classic in an all-black suit with his messy hair and beard. He looked quite charming walking down the red carpet. Next up is the man who defines men's fashion for all age groups. Ayushmann Khurrana dropped yet another style bomb wearing an OS by OS suit. Working the velvet blazer like it's meant to be, he sure was one of the finest dressed that night. Our second host for the night, Rajkumar Rao took the classic route in his Gaurav Gupta creation. A tailor-made tux with his unmatched charm, Rajkumar and his tuxedo were a match made in heaven.

The 66th Vimal Elaichi Filmfare Awards 2021 were held on a muggy day in Mumbai. But no one minded the heat and humidity, as well as the mandatory antigen test at the venue – Film City, Mumbai. Because it was all about celebrating hope, celebrating victory, celebrating rebirth. The film industry had come to a halt because of the coronavirus pandemic. Films weren't getting shot, weren't getting released. But our film industry folks are nothing if not survivors. They soaked in the pressure and waited for the storm to subside. And through shooting in safe destinations and releasing films on OTT, they managed to survive. And that resilient spirit was very much evident during the awards show. ROMANCING LIFE

Irrfan Khan was our Lifetime Achievement Award winner this year and also won the Best Actor In A Leading Role (Male) for Angrezi Medium. The awards were given posthumously and were collected by his son Babil on his behalf. Babil came wearing an ensemble which belonged to his father, at the event. He became teary-eyed while collecting the trophies and the audience choked-up as well. It was an emotional moment for all. Babil wants to make a career in showbiz and commented that he wanted his father to teach him acting. But in his absence, he'll learn it from his father's colleagues. He vowed to carry forward his father's glorious legacy and we wish him all the success in the world.

THAPPAD KI GOONJ

Thappad, produced by Anubhav Sinha and T Series, was the much-celebrated movie at the ceremony, and won a slew of popular as well as technical awards.

Taapsee Pannu won the Best Actor In A Leading Role (Female) for the film and commented that while last year she won the Best Actress (Critics'), which she shared with Bhumi Pednekar for Saand Ki Aankh, she was glad that her popularity had soared within one year.

She large-heartedly dedicated her award to all her colleagues who got nominated in her category, stating that each one was a woman of substance and excelled in their respective roles. And that this was a collective victory for women in the industry and women everywhere. She also said her director Anubhav Sinha had kind of predicted this victory at the start of the film and thanked him for making this thought-provoking film about women's empowerment. Raghav Chaitanya won the Best Playback Singer (Male) for singing the soulful Ek tukda dhoop from the film. It was the first Bollywood outing for the internet sensation and the lad's excitement was palpable. We'd like to thank Amaal Malik for driving all the way from his home in Andheri to present the award to his protégé.

BIG THANKS!

Thappad also took home the Best Film trophy. While the stars get all the limelight, the people behind the marquee names remain largely unknown. Partnering with Cadbury, we decided to acknowledge the unacknowledged this year. As a part of the initiative, Anubhav Sinha's and Bhushan Kumar's support staff were called upon to the stage and both the producers dedicated their award to the silent heroes working with them. They were also given Cadbury hampers to further sweeten the memory. We also organised a red carpet activity where the support staff of various stars were put under the limelight and quizzed about the life they lead by Siddharth Kannan. He asked them fun questions about their association with stars and at the end gifted them Cadbury hampers.

FARROKH JAFFAR, THE WINNER OF BEST ACTOR IN A SUPPORTING ROLE (FEMALE) IS CLOSE TO 90 AND YET CHOSE TO TRAVEL ALL THE WAY FROM LUCKNOW FOR THE BIG NIGHT

Tamannaah

Ayushmann Khurrana

The delight on their faces made our day. Tamannaah Bhatia, who arrived at the red carpet while her staff was being interviewed, joined in the proceedings and even shook a leg with all of them. That's called team spirit, alright.

SUPER SINGER

Singer Malobika Banerjee introduced her new song on the Filmfare stage. Malobika, whose rendition mesmerised the audience, said that she was glad she was attending Filmfare this year when the going has been bleak for the industry. She said our awards are sure to boost the morale of the industry in such trying times. Sweet words, indeed.

LUCKY LUCKNOW

Gulabo Sitabo was another big winner of the night. Farrokh Jaffar, the winner of Best Actor In A Supporting Role (Female), Award for her enthralling performance in Gulabo Sitabo, is close to 90. And she chose to travel all the way from Lucknow for the big night. The film is set in Lucknow and looks like the city proved lucky for her, as well as for the makers. She was a veritable delight and made everyone's spirit soar through her infectious laughter. Amitabh Bachchan won the Best Actor (Critics') Award for his performance in the film but unfortunately wasn't able to attend the function. We missed you, sir.

CALL FOR WARRIORS

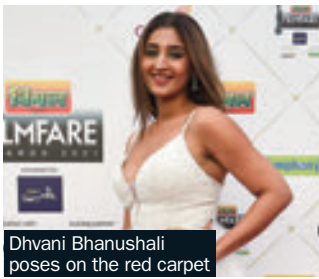

Saif Ali Khan couldn't make it to the venue to collect his Best Actor In A Supporting Role (Male) trophy for his role in Tanhaji: The Unsung Warrior. His daughter

LUDO WON FOR PRITAM HIS FOURTH FILMFARE TROPHY FOR BEST MUSIC. THE COMPOSER WAS IN FINE SPIRITS AND SAID HE WAS EXPECTING TO WIN FOR LOVE AAJ KAL

Sara Ali Khan turned up instead to collect the trophy on her father's behalf. Thanks kiddo. Tanhaji's director Om Raut, who self-confessedly grew up on stories concerning our glorious history couldn't contain his joy on winning the Best Director's trophy. The film was a visual extravaganza and it's no wonder that it won the Best VFX award as well.

MUSICAL CHAIRS

Ludo won for Pritam his fourth Filmfare trophy for Best Music. The composer was in fine spirits and said he was expecting to win for Love Aaj Kal and was hugely surprised when his name was announced for Ludo. He had brought his son Purvesh along with him for the first time and kept checking with him whether he had thanked everyone in his speech. We were having our awards in three segments and when Pritam went home after his session, his daughter Ishqa chided him for not taking her along. He called us up to ask if he could attend the next session with her and it was our pleasure to have him again with us. Asees Kaur won the Best Playback Singer (Female) for the title song of Malang and was brimming with joy at the ceremony. She loved posing with the trophy at the photoshoot room and gave some stunning shots. We missed Gulzar saab, our Best Lyrics winner. The writer, despite his advanced age, has kept himself relevant in today's era. This was his 13th win in the category, which is an all-time record.

TO SIR WITH LOVE

Tillotama Shome won the Best Actress (Critics') trophy for her sublime performance as a housemaid who falls in love with her employer in Rohena Gera's Sir. Tillotama said she has had a twenty-year journey as an actress and still felt like a debutante on the Filmfare stage holding her trophy. Rohena, who won the Best Screenplay Award for her sensitive writing, was out of India at the time and sent a friend to collect it.

DREAM DEBUTS

Alaya F is a little bundle of energy who made her presence felt with her endearing performance in the romcom Jawaani Jaaneman. Her joy knew no bounds when her grandfather, the towering Kabir Bedi, turned up to present her with her Best Debut (Female) trophy. It was a sweet family reunion on stage. Alaya was all teary-eyed and so overwrought with emotion that she forgot her winner's speech. Awww... A beginning can be made at any age and our Best Debut (Director) Rajesh Krishnan personified that. The middle-aged filmmaker won the award for Lootcase and was as happy about it as Alaya. The film was a rib-tickling comedy and let's hope he goes on to make many more laugh riots in the future.

KEEPING IT SHORT

Arnav Abdagire, our Best Actor in the short film segment, is a blind child. He didn't let his handicap deter him from acting in the film Arjun, which also won the Best Short Film Award. He posed happily for our photos and was one of the happiest souls around. The film's director, Shivraj Waichal, who is an actor in Marathi cinema, revealed that the project got made because of lockdown. He and producer Vishal Bhujbal were tired of sitting idle and thought of making a short film to keep their creative juices flowing. Our Best Short Film Non Fiction winner Nitesh Parulekar likewise was stuck in his home at Konkan during the lockdown and decided to make a film on the wildlife found in the local backyards. His film, Backyard Wildlife Sanctuary, made with the help of family and friends is an eyeopener indeed. Purvi Savardekar, our Best Actor (Female) in short films, for the film First Wedding, is a stage actor from Goa. She was in the middle of a show when we called her and thought someone was pranking her. Ryan Stephen and Niranjan Iyengar made a thought-provoking short film about rape called Devi which was immensely successful on the internet. It's no wonder that it won the People's Choice Award. Kudos to them on their victory.

E=MC3

Our three emcees, Rajkumar Rao, Ritesh Deshmukh and Maniesh Paul were a bundle of energy and kept things in sync with their split-second timing. Maneish, in particular, was at his impromptu best. Maniesh interacted with Sunny Leone and their banter raked in the laughs. He also made celebs like Anurag Basu, FEELING FRESH WITH FILMFARE!

THE 66TH VIMAL ELAICHI FILMFARE AWARDS 2021 ADDED A DOSE OF FRESHNESS TO THESE MIASMIC TIMES

Separated by a pandemic but united by the 66th Vimal Elaiichi Filmfare Awards 2021, Bollywood's top celebrities like Anurag Basu, Sara Ali Khan, Anubhav Sinha, Amruta Khanvilkar, Nora Fatehi, Taapsee Pannu and Sunny Leone had a blast on the red carpet which they walked on after a year of staying locked in. Every celebrity who attended was thrilled at this semblance of normalcy and equally excited to meet members of the film fraternity whom they hadn't seen in ages. It was truly a refreshing feeling being back on the red carpet and at the prestigious awards ceremony which was held with utmost care and precaution, keeping in mind these trying times. The message was clear - despite all the hardship, the film industry was together and united.

What does a single slap entail?

Probably everything when it comes to self-respect. Thappad showed us that it's not always right to turn the other cheek. The film, about marital discord, won the Best Picture trophy for its producers Anubhav Sinha and Bhushan Kumar. Anubhav also won the Best Story trophy, along with Mrunmayee Lagoo Waikul, for the same film. And Taapsee Pannu took home the Best Actor In A Leading Role (Female) trophy for her sensitive portrayal of a homemaker who chooses not to be a victim and fights back at the first instance of violence. Eeb Allay Ooo! The title will have you scratching your head but this unheard of film about the plight of migrant workers is certainly worth a dekho, especially in such uncertain times. Amitabh Bachchan is furiously reinventing himself these days, taking greater risks than he did in his heyday and shaming younger actors into upping their game. He won the Best Actor (Critics') Award as an eccentric landlord at odds with everyone in the world in Gulabo Sitabo. The Best Actress (Critics') trophy went to Tillotama Shome for Sir. Her true-to-life portrayal of a maid who finds herself falling for her employer is really out of this world. The late Irrfan Khan was both our Best Actor and the Lifetime Achievement Award winner. The cruel hand of death snatched him away from us at a time when he was touching his peak both nationally and internationally. Know about them and about every other winner in this specially-curated segment...

BEST ACTOR IN A LEADING ROLE (MALE)

IRRFAN KHAN

ANGREZI MEDIUM

Irrfan Khan, as we know, was undergoing treatment for a near-fatal disease and was in much pain throughout the shooting of the film. So kudos to him for overcoming the odds and giving us another masterful performance. The film was all about the bond between fathers and daughters and it all felt achingly real. The film proved to be his swan song. Through his courageous efforts, he proved that not even death can dilute the power of a heartfelt performance.

A LEADING ROLE
(FEMALE)

TAAPSEE PANNU

THAPPAD

Taapsee Pannu is growing as an actor with each passing film. In Thappad, she plays a woman who chooses to walk out of her marriage after a single incident of domestic abuse as she feels she's been slighted. Her silences, her body language say it all. She stays within her character throughout and makes you root for her. She makes you experience the world through her character Amrita's eyes and makes you understand the importance of her fight. It's another fine portrayal from the actor.

BEST ACTOR
(CRITICS')

AMITABH BACHCHAN

GULABO SITABO

The thespian plays an ageing landlord who is always at odds with the people around him. His is an unsatisfied soul who is never at peace. The actor has done many unusual roles before – Black and Paa are two examples – and he continues to amaze us with his virtuosity. It's as if he's taken upon himself to increase the difficulty levels as he ages. Bachchan is almost hidden under layers of make-up but he doesn't let that hinder his acting skills and comes up with a commanding performance once more.

TILLOTAMA SHOME

SIR

Tillotama Shome shines as a maid from rural Maharashtra who sees Mumbai as a chance to begin life anew. She soon develops an emotional bond with her America-retuned landlord. He's hurting from a broken engagement and finds solace in her company. But the maid is practical enough to know that love isn't enough as the chasm between them is too deep. The little touches she imparts to her character, the body language, the palpable sense of unease – you feel as if you're watching a real maid and not an actor portraying a role.

BEST DIRECTOR

OM RAUT

TANHAJI: THE
UNsung WARRIOR

A disclaimer before the beginning of the film states that it doesn't vouch for historical accuracy so don't go into looking for facts here. What director Om Raut has done is bring alive the valour of Tanhaji on the silver screen. The film follows the adventures of Tanhaji Malusare and his band of bravehearts as they attempt to wrench the tactically important Kondana fort from the hands of the Mughals. From an obscure footnote in history, the warrior looks like the stuff of legend as his exploits get recreated on celluloid.

EEB ALLAY OOO!

PRATEEK VATS

The film is an absurd comedy about the plight of migrant workers in metros. It reaches out to the people belonging to the grassroots level and points out that sometimes the fate of such marginalised people is worse than that of the animals. The protagonist can't land a job and gets hired to curb the monkey menace and develops a strange empathy with the apes. The film is a moving document of human suffering and should be lauded for pushing the envelope when it comes to narrative treatment as well.

BEST FILM

THAPPAD

The film points out that women have been conditioned for generations to support wrong practices for the sake of domestic peace. It makes a case for the fact that even the smallest act of domestic violence is an offense. What you see on screen looks and feels real. The film shakes you up as you realise that patriarchy is indeed deeply ingrained in the very bones of our society. Kudos to the makers for making us face this grim reality, which we often turn a blind eye to.

LOOTCASE

Lootcase is a rollicking document about human greed. It tells a story of a man who inadvertently finds a suitcase full of money and doesn't know what to do with it. Carrying the absurdist leanings of the film further, the protagonist is shown to develop a relationship with the suitcase, pouring his heart out to the inanimate object. The hilarious monologue spouted by the protagonist provide for rib-tickling comedy.

BEST DEBUT (FEMALE)

ALAYA F

JAWAANI JAANEMAN

Alaya Furniturewala makes a confident debut, displaying a mixture of strength and vulnerability that was needed in the film. She fits right in there with Saif, hoping for his friendship, his support but is okay with a life without him as well. The most refreshing thing about her character is that it isn't judgmental of anyone's life decisions. Her character just goes with the flow, hoping for the best and Alaya's portrayal catches the easy optimism of youth quite effectively.

LIFETIME
ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

IRRFAN KHAN

Irrfan studied drama at NSD after doing his MA. He moved to Mumbai after passing out and acted in numerous television serials, including Chanakya, Bharat Ek Khoj, Sara Jahan Hamara, Banegi Apni Baat, Chandrakanta, Shrikant and Sparsh. He made his big-screen debut with the Academy Award nominated film Salaam Bombay! (1988) directed by Mira Nair. He was also seen in the acclaimed art film Ek Doctor Ki Maut (1990).

He became a known face in the West when London-based director Asif Kapadia gave him the lead in The Warrior (2001), which won acclaim in several film festivals abroad. He later went on to act in several prestigious projects from the West like The Namesake (2006), The Darjeeling Limited (2007), the Academy Award winning film Slumdog Millionaire (2008), New York, I Love You (2009), The Amazing Spider-Man (2012), Life of Pi (2012), Jurassic World (2015) and Inferno (2016).

He won the Filmfare Award for Best Villain for Haasil. Besides that, he won the Filmfare Best Supporting Actor trophy for Life In A... Metro (2007), Best Actor (Critics') for Paan Singh Tomar (2012) and the Best Actor trophy for Hindi Medium (2017) and for Angrezi Medium (2010), its sequel. The award was given posthumously to the actor. In February 2018, Irrfan was diagnosed with an undisclosed disease, which later turned out to be a neuroendocrine tumour. He travelled to London and returned after one year of treatment. He was hospitalised due to a colon infection on April 28, 2020 and died of subsequent complications.

Irrfan's son Babil receives the award from Ayushmann Khurrana

BEST ACTOR IN A
SUPPORTING ROLE (MALE)

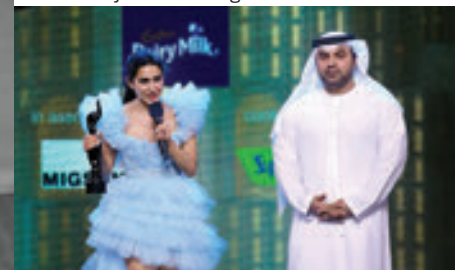

SAIF ALI KHAN

TANHAJI: THE
UNsung WARRIOR

Saif Ali Khan teamed up with his Omkaara colleague Ajay Devgn and created history once more. He plays Udaybhan, a Rajput who has joined hands with the mughals. Udaybhan is ruthless and cunning and that's what makes his character more interesting. Saif gets the nuances just right and plays the character with just the right touch. One can see he's having a lot of fun playing a slightly unhinged character having a set of quirks. It's one of the best roles played by the actor in recent years.

FARROKH JAFFAR

GULABO SITABO

She's close to 90 but hasn't lost her zest for life. Farrokh Jaffar has the most delightful role in the film. She plays Amitabh's wife who is older to him by a decade or so. She married him as she couldn't find the courage to rebel against her parents. She holds the purse-strings and keeps her husband under control. Her character hasn't lost the will to live despite her old age and her survival instincts are sharp as hell. It's a wonderful performance indeed from the actor.

GULZAR

MOVIE - CHHAPPAK
SONG - CHHAPPAK

Gulzar is a master of packing a wealth of meaning in a few deft lines. Here too, he talks about how a few drops of acid can have life-changing consequences. The whole philosophy of the film is captured in this thought-provoking song by the evergreen wordsmith who seems to be growing better and better as he ages. He has already set the benchmark of winning the most Filmfare Awards as a lyricist. And we somehow get the feeling that it won't get surpassed any time soon.

MOVIE - THAPPAD
SONG - EK TUKDA DHOOP

Raghav has a unique, soulful voice which brims with technical virtuosity as well. Ek tukda dhoop talks about having one's own place in the sun. It's a homage to freedom, to the ability of doing things for one's own sake and not under the compulsion of others. Of being your own person. It's the choice everyone would like to possess and the song reminds you of it. The song is layered with meaning and he makes every nuance come alive through his mellifluous voice. BEST STORY

ANUBHAV SUSHILA SINHA & MRUNMAYEE LAGOO WAIKUL

THAPPAD

Thappad is a story of a woman's fight for self-respect. At the first glance, getting slapped by her husband in a fit of anger might look like a small thing but it had deeper repercussions. That one incident makes the protagonist question all the minute details which have been eroding her personality bit by bit. The insightful story brings to light the big and small abuses women have to put up with in a marriage.

ROHENA GERA

SIR

Is love enough? That's the question being asked by the film. In India, especially, where class, religious and racial divides still dominate, love is never enough. And this is brought forth poignantly through the screenplay. Without going over the top, in subtle, small ways, the screenplay hints at the chasm of difference that exists between the two protagonists. We're made aware that even if they have strong feelings towards each other, it would be impractical for them to be together as the society won't tolerate it.

JUHI CHATURVEDI

GULABO SITABO

Gulabo Sitabo uses folklore motifs to weave a story about greed and human need. The dialogue feels like something real people would speak, rather than something culled from a book. At the same time, they are full of little hints and meanings that compel you to keep watching the film, waiting for the surprise to unravel. And the idiom of Lucknow is brought home just right as well. All in all, Juhi Chaturvedi scores off on a high on all points with this one.

BEST BACKGROUND
SCORE

MANGESH URMILA DHAKDE

THAPPAD

The art of background score lies in concealing it to the background. It should run parallel to the film's narrative without disrupting it. Thappad is a sensitive film about marital abuse. The film, without going shrill, makes a case that such things shouldn't be tolerated. And it is paralleled by the background score as well.

CINEMATOGRAPHY

AVIK MUKHOPADHAYAY

GULABO SITABO

Gulabo Sitabo is all about lost glory. Hence the heightened shadows, grime and grim faces and the overall sense of disillusionment which pervades the film are highlighted by the deft camerawork. Avik reportedly chose to shoot in natural light and that made all the difference indeed. He has not shot Lucknow like a tourism department video but has emphasised the heat and the dust, letting the elements add to the story of greed and human failings. The masterful camerawork adds another layer to the film.

GULABO SITABO

Gulabo Sitabo is set in Lucknow. It tells a tale of once wealthy landowners who are well-past their golden age and are eking out a living renting out their palatial homes, which are crumbling due to lack of maintenance. Mansi Mehta makes sure that Amitabh Bachchan's house which is the focal point of the majority of action doesn't look out of place from the theme of the film. The crumbling paint, the deteriorating brickwork, even the lighting sockets to old but functional bicycles — It all feels real indeed.

COSTUME DESIGN

VEERA KAPUR EE

GULABO SITABO

Gulabo Sitabo belongs to a world caught between modernity and agelessness. Its characters belong to the lower-middle class, somehow making ends meet. They don't know that they are caught in a loop with no end in sight. The costumes look well-worn. In fact they look like clothes people might have brought for themselves rather than designed by a designer. That's a fine touch by Veera Kapur Ee indeed and adds to the overall appeal of the film.

KAAMOD KHARADE

THAPPAD

Domestic violence has become such an everyday thing in our country that we have become blasé about it. We have normalised it to the extent that it seems like a problem only when the victim is beaten to death or burnt alive. But the film points out that even a slap is one too many. Kaamod Kharade keeps the ambience alive in such a scenario. He also makes sure his sound design pushes the narrative smoothly without getting intrusive.

BEST EDITING

YASHA PUSHPA RAMCHANDANI

THAPPAD

On the surface, the film has a single-line story. A husband slaps his wife in a fit of rage and then let alone apologising, feels there's nothing wrong in his actions. The wife quietly rebels against this injustice for the sake of her self-respect. The drama in the film is created by silences that lengthen with each passing frame, heralding the storm that's gathering inside the protagonist's heart. Thanks to the deft editing, the pathos and the angst stand out. Kudos to Yasha Ramchandani for her inspired cutting.

DIL BECHARA

Art lies in concealing art, as they say. The choreography of Dil Bechara's title track doesn't appear rehearsed. Rather, it smacks of impromptu improvisations of a seasoned dancer dancing his heart out and having a good time of it doing so. Dance shouldn't just consist of deft moves but showcase emotions as well and that's what Farah Khan's choreography does best. She really makes Sushant Singh Rajput come alive in the track.

The film has some of the most intricate VFX work in recent history. The makers supposedly spent a major portion of the film's budget on it. The VFX artists did a superb job indeed.

BACKYARD WILDLIFE
SANCTUARY

As the name suggests, this short documentary film is shot in the backyard, showing the natural diversity found in it. The film starts with the drawing of a prehistory couple trying their best to learn farming. After that it is suggested that the backyard is also a farming experiment done by our ancestors. The camera moves in the backyard and vast diversity from butterflies, birds and snakes are shown. All these creatures get water, food, shelter in backyards. The message is that we should provide safety to all these creatures, as wildlife sanctuaries do.

Arjun is a story of a little blind boy who sees the world, through his own vision. This slice-of-life film is about a simple incident in his life. Arjun is introduced to the art of pencil sketching by his cousin and an artist, Ateesh. For someone who perceives this world through touch, this is another way of seeing the beauty of the world. He wants to give a sketch to his favourite teacher. The story revolves around the feelings that Arjun experiences while drawing and perceiving things differently.

DEVI

Devi is the story of nine oppressed women, from different strata of society, living in a small room, faced with the dilemma of sharing their space and stories in a country all too used to tragedy and pain. It tells you that rape victims can belong to any age group, any caste, creed or religion. That there is no reason per se for their tragedy to occur. All they can look forward to is death and hope that the afterlife will be kind to them.

STARRY STARRY NIGHT

THE STARS SHONE A LITTLE BRIGHTER WHEN NORA FATEHI, HRITHIK ROSHAN, SARA ALI KHAN, SUNNY LEONE AND AYUSHMANN KHURRANA TOOK THE STAGE AT THE 66TH VIMAL ELAICHI FILMFARE AWARDS, FINDS MAYUKH MAJUMDAR

20 YEARS AND COUNTING

HRITHIK ROSHAN

Ever since Bollywood's very own Greek God, Hrithik Roshan blazed across our screens in a mesh T-shirt that could barely contain his bulging muscles in Kaho Naa...Pyaar Hai (2020), the entire country has been obsessed with the man. Crushingly handsome with acting chops to match, Hrithik is also one of the best dancers in the industry. He's so smooth he makes dancing look easy. This year was all about celebrating 20 years of his career on screen and he danced to his biggest hits down the years right up to Jai Jai Shivshankar from War. It took us back to the good old days when his songs and hook steps would go viral as soon as they got released.

That they still do is testimony to his star power.

TOUCHED BY MAGIC

SARA ALI KHAN

We've all been in love with Sara Ali Khan ever since her debut with Kedarnath (2018). It was her first-ever performance at the Filmfare Awards but the jitters were absent. She was confidence personified. The actress swayed with grace to some of her top hits like Shayad, Twist, Hush hai suhana, Aankh maare, Mera wala dance and Mirchi. During the rehearsals itself, it was evident that Sara's performance was going to be unique. She greeted everyone with an adaab and glided towards the stage, looking like a dream. While we loved the entire medley, we were completely bowled over when she began her sway to the song, Shayad, from Love Aaj Kal.

PITCH PERFECT

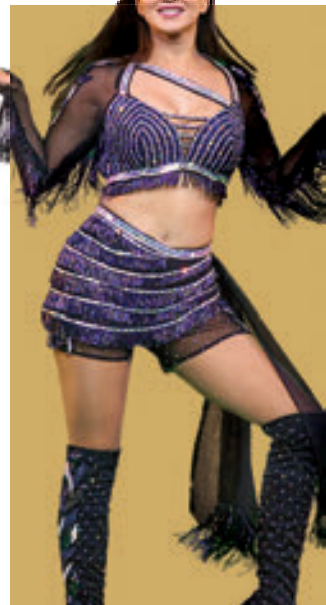

RAJKUMMAR RAO

It's always lovely to have Rajkumar Rao host the prestigious Filmfare Awards. He's the uncrowned king of middle-of-the-road cinema and brought his inherent charm to the proceedings. He knows how to shake a leg when occasion demands. And so it didn't come as a surprise when he danced away with gay abandon for the opening deck of the ceremony. Looking at his smooth moves, it's surprising that he hasn't been cast in a musical already.

NOW SHOWING

SCORCHER ON THE MOVE

SUNNY LEONE

Sunny Leone returned to the prestigious Filmfare stage to perform on some of the biggest musical hits of recent time. Dressed in a shimmering black and silver outfit, Leone looked something out of a dream indeed. Sweet of her to banter with the background dancers and put them at ease before the start of her performance. Like everyone else present, they too had eyes only for her once she started to sway on the stage. She closed her act with the remixed classic Nadiyan paar and had the audience asking for an encore.

BINDAAS VIBES

RITEISH DESHMUKH

Riteish Deshmukh hosted the awards with Rajkummar Rao. Riteish, we know, has a passion for dancing. He brought in his

A game while pretending to romance the Black Lady for the opening act of the Filmfare Awards. Both he and Rajkummar complemented each other to a T and moved as one.

Given the short time they had for preparation, that was a laudable achievement indeed.

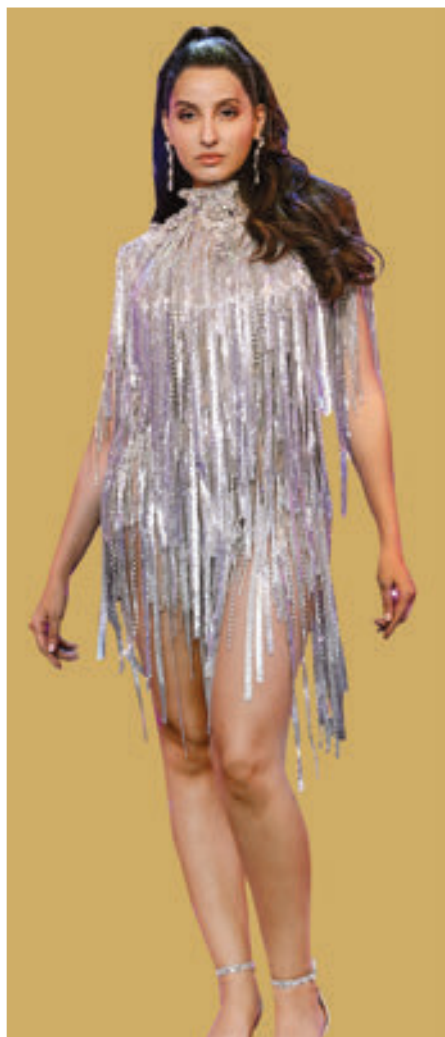

SIZZLING HOT!

NORA FATEHI

Nora Fatehi was in top form on the Filmfare stage. The applause that echoed across the auditorium when Nora made her scintillating appearance was proof of her enormous popularity. The actress danced to her greatest hits from Garmi to Dilbar. Her act was a mixture of oomph, panache and gravity-defying splits. The audience sat up mesmerised as she made short work of the intricate steps and proved she's the queen of the twerk. Take a bow, lady.

VERSATILE MOVES

AYUSHMANN KHURRANA

Ayushmann Khurrana has always been one of the most charismatic actors. With his newly buffed-up body, he's also one of the hottest men in Bollywood at the moment. At the Filmfare Awards, the versatile actor proved once again why he's box office gold. A complete package, Khurrana set off fireworks onstage with his performance which celebrated all the festivals of India. The actor grooved to Don't be shy again, Balam pichkari, Chogada, Jumme ki raat and Deva Shri Ganesha. Ayushmann's trademark boy-next-door smile never left his face and we couldn't help but groove along with him as he danced away to glory.

ALL FOR WORDS

SAGAR SARHADI DID AN INTERVIEW WITH FILMFARE A FEW DAYS BEFORE HE PASSED AWAY. DEVESH SHARMA CHRONICLES THE WRITER/DIRECTOR'S LAST WORDS...

(May 11, 1933 – March 22, 2021)

Writer/filmmaker Sagar Sarhadi was born in Baffa, Pakistan on May 11, 1933. Like millions of others, he became a refugee after Partition. Destiny brought him to Mumbai, where he lived in a small room with his elder brother's family. He was of Marxist leanings and was interested in becoming an Urdu writer and poet. The need for financial security gravitated him towards films. After initial struggles, he became associated with Yash Chopra and the rest, as they say, is history. He became known for his dialogue and screenplays in Yash Chopra's love sagas like Kabhi Kabhie (1976), Silsila (1981), Faasle (1985) and Chandni (1989), among others. He even wrote the dialogue for Basu Bhattacharya's Anubhav (with Kapil Kumar, 1972), Raj Kanwar's Deewana (1992) and Rakesh Roshan's Kaho Naa... Pyaar Hai (2000) but would forever be known for his association with Yash Chopra.

He turned director with Bazaar (1982). Starring Farooq Shaikh, Smita Patil, Naseeruddin Shah and Supriya Pathak, the film was reportedly based on a true story about Muslim girls in Hyderabad, who were being forced to marry rich expatriates for money. The film had some soul-stirring music by Khayaam, with songs like Dikhayee diye yun, Karoge yaad to and Dekh lo aaj humko jee bharke being popular even now. It was considered one of the hallmarks of the neo-realistic cinema in India and despite its art film tag, was a commercial success as well. Unfortunately, despite the film's success, Sarhadi wasn't able to carve a career as a filmmaker. He had set his heart on making the sequel to Bazaar but couldn't see his dream come true.

He had planned a film called Tere Shaheer Mein, starring Naseeruddin Shah, Smita Patil, Deepti Naval and Marc Zuber, but the film couldn't be made. Also, his last project Chausar, starring Nawazuddin Siddiqui and Amruta Subhash, couldn't see the light of the day.

Sarhadi was said to be close to several women but he never married. He passed away on March 22 and is survived by his nephew, filmmaker and theatre personality Ramesh Talwar. Excerpts from his last interview with Filmfare...

← Amitabh Bachchan and Rekha in Silsila

→ Naseeruddin Shah, Bharat Kapoor and Smita Patil in Bazaar

“I left behind my beautiful village, which had a stream running alongside it. The best days of my life were spent there. I yearn to return to it always. In my memory and dreams I still do”

Amitabh Bachchan and Raakhee in Kabhi Kabhie

Sagar Sarhadi with Naseeruddin Shah on the set of Bazaar

How did Ganga Sagar Talwar change into Sagar Sarhadi?

There used to be a gentleman living in my neighbourhood who was called Ganga Sagar and hence I didn't want people to confuse him with me. And Zia Sarhadi was quite a famous screen writer when I was starting out. He was from a border town like I was, so taking Sagar from my own name and borrowing Sarhadi from Zia saab I became Sagar Sarhadi. The nom de plume suited me and brought me fame.

Hrithik Roshan and Ameesha Patel in Kaho Naa... Pyaar Hai

“Yashji liked everything I wrote. And he never changed anything without asking me. That creative freedom he gave was the reason I came up with so many beautiful things for him. And not only was it satisfying creatively, I reaped monetary benefits as well”

Sridevi and Rishi Kapoor in Chandni

Do you still retain memories of your home in Abbottabad, Baffa, which is now in Pakistan?

Why would we want to leave our ancestral home? We were told to run away otherwise we'd be killed. I left behind my beautiful village, which had a stream running alongside it. The best days of my life were spent there. I yearn to return to it always. In my memory and dreams I still do.

Coming to Mumbai after Partition must have felt like a cultural shock

There was a sense of uprootedness which hasn't really gone even after all these years. I still feel uprooted. There was a sense of loss but being young, I was also full of hope. I wanted to learn, to earn, to make a name for myself in this new place where everything, be it the language, the cuisine, the architecture seemed alien. It was a whole new country. But at the same time I knew that it had better opportunities as well. So I decided to stay here and began my struggle.

You were associated with the Progressive Writers'

Association...

I met Kaifi Azmi saab and through him became part of the Progressive Writers' Association. I did have Marxist leanings back then and like most idealistic young men, wanted to do something for my country. We all felt that art should be used for the betterment of the society. I came across feminism and feministic writers during that phase and that kind of left an impression on me. If you notice, all the films I wrote had strong female characters.

Being felicitated by Yash Chopra

You started off with writing the dialogue for Basu Bhattacharya for Anubhav. Tell us something about that Basu Bhattacharya was a little older to me. He had worked with Bimal Roy and carried forward Bimal da's sensibilities. He was a well-read, well-articulated, well-rounded man. I started working with him because I felt being associated with him would make me grow as a writer. Anubhav was a realistic film and the dialogue was meant to be echoes of actual conversations.

How did the association with Yash Chopra come along?

Yashji called me up after watching a one-act play of mine which I had written and my nephew Ramesh

“I realised that if a writer wants to make what’s dear to him then he has to direct it himself. So I joined a film society, watched hundreds of films from all over the world and picked up nuances. One day, when I was confident about making a film independently, I became a director”

Talwar, who is also a good friend, had directed. Ramesh used to work with Yashji and he asked Ramesh to bring me along one day. He offered me Kabhi Kabhie after that first meeting. He sent me to Taj Hotel in Kashmir after narrating the germ of an idea. I used to go on long walks in Kashmir, lost in my own thoughts and then come back and write what I gathered. Strangely, Yashji liked everything I wrote. And he never changed anything without asking me. That creative freedom he gave was the reason I came up with so many beautiful things for him. And not only was it satisfying creatively, I reaped monetary benefits as well. My future was secure and bright.

Tell us a memory from Kabhi Kabhie...

Well, it was my first film with Yashji and yet he gave me pride of place on the posters. Written by Sagar Sarhadi came before Lyrics by Sahir Ludhianvi. Now, Sahir saab was a much senior, much-respected writer. He didn't like it and was angry with Yashji for doing so. He complained to Yashji and the director in his own way explained that you're well known, let this youngster also get a share of the limelight and then Sahir was mollified.

Yash Chopra didn't give you a chance to direct?

Yashji never saw me as a director. He knew me as a writer. And hence he only gave me work as a writer. It was through my own epiphany that I became a director. I realised that if a writer wants to make what's dear to him then he has to direct it himself. So I joined a film society, watched hundreds of films from all over the world and picked up nuances. One day, when I was confident about making a film independently, I became a director and became successful in that field as well.

From Yash Chopra's world to the world to Bazaar, it was quite a leap...

I read an article on the

Smita Patil

Tanuja and Sanjeev Kumar in Anubhav

Nisha Singh, Sagar Sarhadi, Khayyam and Farooque Sheikh and the team of Bazaar fake marriage racket and couldn't believe such a thing was happening. I went to Hyderabad and met the journalists and social workers who had exposed the racket. I've always been a staunch feminist and was moved by the plight of girls being sold by their own parents for money. I decided to make a film about it so the society at large comes to know about the practice. I had no money and borrowed from friends to make the film. It was nice of actors like Naseeruddin Shah and Smita Patil to trust me as I had never directed before. Later, Smita told me I was one of the finest directors she has ever worked with. It was a huge compliment for me.

You wrote the screenplay and dialogue for Deewana, SRK's first film. Tell us an anecdote about that I don't remember any anecdotes as such. But I was happy that I was writing a movie which was

“I've always been a staunch feminist and was moved by the plight of girls being sold by their own parents for money. I decided to make a film about it so the society at large comes to know about the practice” introducing a new face. Writing with a new actor in mind is a challenge. Your responsibility increases as you want his debut film to do well. I kept him loud and aggressive in the first half and emotional and sensitive in the second half so that he could showcase a complete range of emotions to the audience. He was the height of confidence when we were shooting and predictably went on to scale great heights in years to come both as an actor and a star. It's a matter of pride for me that he began his innings with my screenplay.

Gulzar, Salim-Javed, used to be your contemporaries. What sort of a rapport did you have with them?

Gulzar had a mastery of language which I admired and wanted to emulate. I respected and loved him and the feeling was mutual. When we were younger, I used to regularly drop by his place in Bandra, share a drink or two. I learnt much from him and would always be grateful to him for everything he taught me. You grow when you associate with people who have a unique grasp on reality. There was no rivalry between writers back then. We were all brimming with ideas and we all grew through that association of ideas. Salim-Javed were at the top of their game back then. Their word was law. They used to write with a particular actor in mind and the filmmakers used to respect their casting choices. No other writer in the industry has ever wielded that kind of power. They were very organised in their lives and that's what I learnt from them. We knew each other but we were never close. But the mutual respect was there.

Any advice to young writers of today?

Change is compulsion, Change is constant. Change is the only reality there is. A new grammar, a new technique of working will emerge and you'll have to learn that fast in order to survive, in order to excel. You should constantly keep reading new books, new plays, keep watching good cinema from different parts of the world, and constantly try to evolve. Also, don't let success make a home in your head. Be humble. In the film world, your fortunes change every Friday. So keep your head down and keep striving for excellence with every endeavour. ■

EMRAAN HASHMI'S ACE MOVE

It was awesome to read in the I Spy section of your magazine (March) that Emraan Hashmi will play a villain in Tiger 3 opposite Salman Khan and Katrina Kaif. Can't wait for this one.

Ruchika Sharma,

Going places: Kartik Aaryan

KAJOL'S HEARTFELT REVELATIONS

My family and I read the interview by Kajol (March). We all love her. And the way she answered all your questions made for an interesting read.

Shivansh Sharma,

Class act: Kajol

KARTIK'S ON A ROLL

Kartik Aaryan has come a long way. Read in your March issue that he will be working with Scam 1992 director Hansal Mehta if all goes well. This is so exciting. Kartik is a good actor and should definitely think of adding to his repertoire.

Pooja Arora, Amritsar

Roaring wild: Disha Patani and Tiger

TIGER AND HIS TIGRESS

Tiger and Disha look adorable together and the images that you people used in the magazine's latest issue (March) were so lovely. Haven't seen their pictures anywhere else. They truly have each other's backs.

Ritika Rathore, Jaipur

Farewell: Rajiv Kapoor

The late Rajiv Kapoor's film journey in the March issue took me back to his hey day. RIP Rajiv Kapoor.

Mohit Mehta, Varanasi

The last (March) issue gave in-depth information on Kiara Advani's journey to big ticket films. It was on-point for sure.

Rahul Jain, Mumbai

Looks like Marathi Awards were a huge success. Even with the pandemic raging, Filmfare managed to pull it off.

Shalini Singh, New Delhi

Fashion story about the tie-and-dye trend was creative. Thanks for updating us with the latest trends.

Hardee Shah, Surat

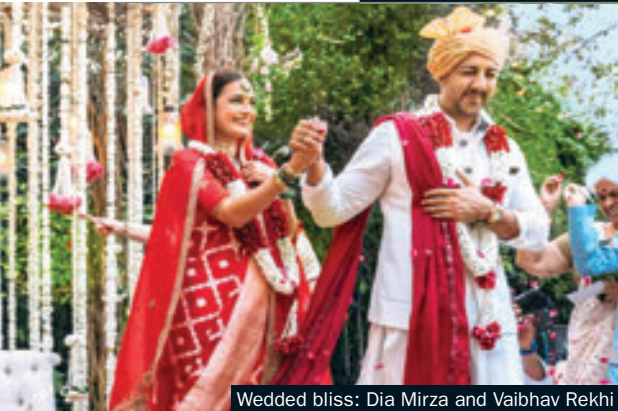

I adore the engaging posts you keep putting on social media. Big thumbs up to your digital team.

BIG B'S GRANDDAUGHTER'S BIG DECISION

Read in the March issue of Filmfare that Shweta Bachchan's daughter Navya Naveli Nanda will be joining her father's business and not movies. That's a revelation. Way to go girl!

Needhi Mehta, New Delhi

Wedded bliss: Dia Mirza and Vaibhav Rekhi

DIA-VAIBHAV'S WEDDING OF EQUALS

I followed every tiny detail about Dia Mirza and Vaibhav Rekhi's wedding on your website and I was blown away by their decisions. From having a female pandit to different vows, these two made us fall in love with love all over again. Filmfare's social media updates on them and their love story were bang on.

Kritika Bhardwaj, Patna

PARINEETI'S THE IT GIRL

Parineeti Chopra's interview about The Girl On The Train (March) and how her character has taken a toll on her was rather informative. It gave me an insight into what went on behind the scenes. I appreciate Filmfare for bringing us informative interviews. Thank you.

Shatrughan Sinha's Rapid fire

You are an actor-producer. After producing Kalka (1983) why didn't you try for direction? Did we lose a talented director?

Anil Torne, Pune

I got attracted to politics, thanks to the teachings of the dynamic leader Shri Jai Prakash Narayan. Hence, I wasn't able to concentrate on direction back then and now it's too late to try. I do believe I would have made a decent enough director.

How do you deal with all the hate and negativity on the Internet?

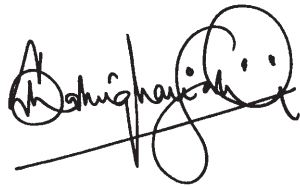

Nisha Gupta, Gurugram

Try not to go on the internet that often. I don't use the internet regularly and hence manage to avoid the negativity. If your job depends upon the internet then please avoid social media as much as possible. Social distancing from social media posts

What do you think of the man who could recall only two happy days in his 25 years of marriage?

N.K. Mani, Indore

Two days? Where's that man? I want to congratulate him. Such a man doesn't exist, my friend. It's always been said that a man can either be happy or married and I firmly believe in it.

Dream film: Kalka

should be your mantra. Be safe, and remain positive. Stay blessed.

Apart from all the hindrance in our lives, this epidemic has kept our minds away from busy schedules and given us time for creativity. What kind of extracurricular activities have you undertaken in the lockdown?

Azimuddin Molla, West Bengal

I spent a lot of time with my family dreaming of new visionary songs for my country. Apart from that, I indulged in lots of yoga, meditation, breathing exercise and sleep. I have spent these months relaxing in the company of my family, something I hadn't done in my entire life before the lockdown. I've always been a traveller and instead of travelling outward, I'm travelling inwards these days.

"Man is a social animal" used to be everybody's favourite opener for essays in school. Can we today say that "man is a social media animal"?

Abhijit Ghosh, West Bengal

Well said and apt too. Yes we've become greedy to read and hear things instantly. Not necessarily all good things though. Most of it is gossip and though we know it's false, it helps pass the time.

Do you believe in the power of prayer?

Dhawal Sahani, Bhilai

Absolutely. Prayer is the surest and easiest way to talk to the Almighty. So everyone should believe in the power of prayer. I certainly do.

Is globalisation the biggest contributor to global warming?

Naveen Bhardwaj, Mohali

Yes, to some extent. We human beings have interfered with nature and the outcome is there for everyone to see.

In your opinion, what significant changes have you seen, good or bad, in the film industry and in politics after you left an illustrious acting career behind?

Lalitkumar Kumpalath, Mumbai

In the industry, I see the changes in film technology. In the way, films are shot or directed. Some say the films of today lack soul when it comes to story or songs and maybe it's true. In politics, we have seen a bit of deterioration. It has become more corrupt, more cutthroat. The less said the better.

Common man's fantasy: Ghayal

Will the world be more atheistic in the future?

Seema Sabharwal, Chandigarh
Definitely, as we are becoming more insensitive, emotionless and selfish.

How does one deal with anxiety?

Subhash Chand, Chandigarh
With anxiety to begin with and then, of course, you go for yoga and for meditation

Do you believe in astrology?

Shouldn't the government give some incentives to teachers who have toiled hard to continue giving lessons online to the student fraternity in India? Instead, we hear the teachers are scared that their salary will be cut or delayed. Please comment.

Rakesh Verma, Doha
Even during the pandemic teachers have toiled long and hard and have been doing their duty admirably. Yes, many have faced cuts in their salaries and the government should look into that and help them out. They should ideally be compensated for their loss. Please remember

Most films show illegal nexus between underworld dons, religious gurus, bureaucrats and politicians and a simple common man in films like Ghayal comes from nowhere and fights it all only with his dedication and will power. Dear Shotgun, do you think this is possible in the real world?

Adv. S Sridhar, Kolkata
Films do portray reality but many times things are shown as being larger than life. It's not possible for the common man to fight the demons among us and films give him that escape to fantasy.

When there is Goddess Kali and Lord Krishna — both dark-skinned, why do people think dark skin is not beautiful and cosmetic companies sell products saying it will change skin colour shade from dark to fair?

Merlin Thomas, Bhopal
I think we got obsessed with white skin thanks to being ruled by the British. They might have left but our mindset hasn't changed in all these years. Kali and Krishna are worshipped as Gods, they're beyond the petty boundaries of colour and shape. Period.

REMEMBERING SHASHIKALA

AUGUST 4, 1932 - APRIL 4, 2021

The veteran character actor passed away recently. Devesh Sharma offers a brief profile of her life and career

Shashikala Jawalkar Saigal was born in 1932 at Solapur. Her father Anantrao Jawalkar was a cloth merchant. She had five other siblings. Her father's business unfortunately collapsed when she was still a child. It was tough going for the actor, who then joined a dance and drama troupe to make ends meet. Her troupe enacted mythological plays at fairs and child Shashikala became famous for playing Krishna. The family later shifted to Mumbai. She started going to film studios to find work. It's said she was discovered by singing star Noorjehan. The singer and her husband Shaukat Hussain were making a film called Zeenat (1945) and wanted to cast her as Noorjehan's daughter in the film. Her lack of mastery over Urdu didn't get her the speaking role but she was included in a qawwali scene in the film.

IT'S SAID SHASHIKALA WAS DISCOVERED BY SINGING STAR NOORJEHAN, WHO INCLUDED HER IN A QAWALLI SCENE IN ZEENAT (1945)

She started getting work regularly through the good graces of Noorjehan but all that changed when the singing star and her husband migrated to Pakistan after Partition. Her struggles started all over again. She married Om Prakash Saigal, a relative of singer and actor Kundan Lal Saigal when she was barely 19. She'd been getting roles in films but wasn't getting the recognition she deserved despite being talented. The lead roles too weren't coming. Her husband tried to make a film starring her but it took too long to make and ultimately nothing came of it. The film, ironically titled Krorepati (1961), which starred Kishore Kumar opposite her, bombed at the box office, taking all their savings with it. Financial insecurity led to marital discord at home. It's said she even left her husband for a while, though they reconciled later.

It was her decision to concentrate on character roles that saved her career. The change came with the film Aarti (1962), starring Meena Kumari, Ashok Kumar, and Pradeep Kumar. She played a villain's role in this family drama. The negative role won her plaudits and even won her a Filmfare trophy. Offers started pouring in and she never looked back after that. She did important roles in films like Gumrah (1963) – which won her another Filmfare Best Actor In A Supporting Role Award– Ayee Milan Ki Bela (1964), Waqt (1965), Anupama (1966), Phool Aur Patthar (1966) and many more. While she was financially secure, she wasn't mentally at ease and it's at this point of life that she reportedly started searching for spiritual solace. Her search first took her to vipassana meditation and later attracted her towards Mother Teresa. She was very much influenced by Sisters of Mercy and even worked in their ashram in Pune as a volunteer. A meeting with Mother Teresa pushed her further into social service. Mother assigned her to look after Nirmal Hriday, a home for the dying. Working with the organisation brought her the spiritual ease she had long wished for. Later, when she lost one of her daughters to cancer in 1995, she was able to draw strength from the work she was doing. In between, she converted to Christianity, though in her interviews she maintained it wasn't Mother Teresa's influence but the compulsion of her own heart which made her take the step.

She soon graduated to doing bhabhi and maa roles. Not all were negative in nature. One remembers her matching Rekha's footwork in Khubsoorat (1980), where she played the eldest bahu of the house. She hadn't formally learnt Kathak and yet so apt were her moves that it felt she was a trained dancer. Earlier, in Phool Aur Patthar, she had even done a cabaret dance. She certainly could move if she set her mind to it. The wind of new wave cinema was blowing in the '70s-'80s and she too wasn't untouched by it. Her performance in the 1977 film Swami, where she acted side-by-side with art film veterans like Utpal Dutt, Girish Karnad and Shabana Azmi was admired by the masses and the critics alike.

Like most character artistes, she gravitated towards television in the later stage of her career.

Her best known work for TV remains Sonpatri. She was also seen in series like Kise Kahen Apna, Jeena Isi Ka Naam Hai, Apnapan and Dil Deke Dekho. She remained an outgoing personality, remaining active in the field of social service and was in touch with her industry friends. The pandemic and the resultant lockdown reportedly took a toll on her personality. She hated being homebound and felt caged by the restrictions. God chose an auspicious day for her passing away. On April 4, Easter Sunday, which is seen as a celebration of new life, she passed away at her home in the presence of her granddaughter Soniya and her great-granddaughter Shanaya.

She may no longer be with us in the flesh but will always be known to us through her work on the silver screen... ■

ANALITA SETH CHATS UP WITH SWARA BHASKER AND IS BOWLED OVER BY HER CANDOUR AND SASS

Swara Bhasker is one actress who has happily hopped onto the OTT bandwagon and is reaping rich benefits. While others were sitting idle and baking banana bread during the lockdown, Swara had four web series out on OTT. And she isn't averse to taking risk or shying away from something risqué as long as it indulges her creative cravings. She's always spoken her mind and is known for her anti-establishment stance. She reasons if the artistes don't speak up when other sectors get affected, then being quiet will become a habit and they'll easily submit to curbs when creativity gets targeted. She doesn't know about others but she's unwilling to go gently into that dark night. Excerpts from a rollicking interview with the feisty actress who doesn't believe in being just another pretty face...

How does it feel to have had four web series released during the lockdown?

It feels great. Rasbhari got released in June 2020, then came Flesh in August, Bhaag Beanie Bhaag in December and the latest is Aapkey Kamrey Mein Koi Rehta Hai (AKMKRH), streaming on MX from January 2021 onwards. So I'm loving it. For a year dominated by the coronavirus pandemic, this is great.

Horror-comedy is not a highly explored genre in India. Were you skeptical before signing AKMKRH?

When I read a script, I never think of what genre it belongs to. I read it for what it is. So when I read its script, I really liked it. It was edgy and funny. For me, the horror in the series is how can four boys be so dumb. Gaurav Sinha, the writer and director of the series has done a good job with balancing the humour and the scary bits. Of course, there is horror but it's a story of four friends, a comedy of errors. The only thing I was worried about was that whenever a story requires a suspension of disbelief, it can get tacky or cheesy. I feel if your audience is interested in you, they don't necessarily have to believe in what they are watching. If you've got them hooked in, then you're okay. So the challenge for me was whether as an actor I can engage you enough that you'll be interested in my performance even though you don't believe in what's happening.

Bhaag Beanie Bhaag

“WHENEVER A STORY REQUIRES A SUSPENSION OF DISBELIEF, IT CAN GET TACKY OR CHEESY. I FEEL IF YOUR AUDIENCE IS INTERESTED IN YOU, THEY DON'T NECESSARILY HAVE TO BELIEVE IN WHAT THEY ARE WATCHING. IF YOU'VE GOT THEM HOOKED IN, THEN YOU'RE OKAY”

Aapkey Kamrey Mein Koi Rehta Hai

What were the shooting timelines for your series? Did you shoot anything during the lockdown?

All four were shot between the end of 2018 till the start of 2020. Bhaag Beanie Bhaag was the last thing it difficult to flow from one to the other?

As much as possible, I try not to shoot two things together. I've done it once before and it's most distracting and irritating. It's also very hard. Later, when I watched these shows, I realised I had prepared well for each of them. The transition from one to the other happened during the process of preparation. So for me, if you prepare well for each role, you will be able to find that transition in the preparation. There's also this new thing I've started doing. Actors always try hard to get into a role, but we never have a process of getting out of it. I've started to do that now. Especially after Anarkali Of Arrah. I hadn't realised that it

“ACTORS ALWAYS TRY HARD TO GET INTO A ROLE, BUT WE NEVER HAVE A PROCESS OF GETTING OUT OF IT. I'VE STARTED TO DO THAT NOW”

I shot before the lockdown. But I dubbed for two or three of these shows during the lockdown. So we had this impressive set-up with the sound engineer in Mumbai and I was in a studio in Delhi with a different sound engineer. Everything was sanitised after each sitting and I bought my own headphones. Everything was shot before but a lot of the post-production happened during the lockdown.

All your four roles are different from each other. How did you prepare for them and was had affected me psychologically. After that film, I started to question myself as to why there was so much anger within me or what was happening with me. I realised that I got into the role but never got out of it.

Do you feel being an entertainer and an active voice of activism can go hand-in-hand?

I never saw them as being in opposition with each other. Having an opinion is the most natural thing. We are born with a brain and a mouth. Opinions make us human. My pet can't have an opinion and even if it

 HAVING AN

 OPINIONS MAKE

 WHY BEING AN ACTOR AND
 HAVING AN

 TWO OPPOSITE

does, it can't express it. So I don't understand why being an actor and having an opinion are two opposite things. I'm an artiste, I pay taxes here, I'm a citizen of this country... whatever happens in the country affects my work directly. I feel as an actor I should have an opinion. I believe in the policy of live and let live. If I have an opinion, it doesn't mean you need to have the same opinion as well. I don't judge people for not speaking up, for the choices they make or choosing to stay silent. I do judge people for breaking the law. Have whatever opinion you do, but don't try to justify murder and don't normalise hate. If you have used your voice or platform to harm someone, especially a community, then I'm not okay with that. It's okay if you don't want to work with someone to avoid the toxicity.

What is your take on censorship and the hike in ban culture?

I do not believe in censorship. The legacy of censorship in India is very problematic because those laws were made by the British colonial government to repress the voice of India during the freedom struggle. They didn't want people to go out there and demand freedom. That is literally the origin of censorship in India. So I don't understand why these laws still exist and why do we have to bear the burden of our colonial past even now. I believe in certification. Yes, there is content that children shouldn't watch. It's only meant for adults. It's terrible that censorship is happening in our country and of course, it is politicised. It is a bad sign for democracy because you don't know what you'll say that will hurt someone. In the last six months, every other week there is a new controversy where people are trying to ban content. That is such a terrible sign for us as a modern society. We've also become too petty as a society. One of the biggest conditions for good art and creativity to flourish is the freedom and safety of your thoughts and expressions. If you make our creativity criminal and if people can go to jail for having a certain expression, then we have to go back to the nonsense formula of filmmaking with item numbers, cars flying and the same old storyline.

What do you feel about escapist cinema compared to realistic stories?

It is fine to have escapist cinema but one day they'll come to control our fantasies also. If you can't crack a joke today, one day they'll tell you, you can't dream a dream. Your fantasies will hurt their sentiments. No genre is problematic. Look at Avatar. It is a prime example of cinema that can be called escapist but look at the kind of critique it is making of authoritarianism, capitalism and the American foreign policy. So the problem is not the genre but the mentality we have as a society.

How was it working with Shabana Azmi and Divya Dutt in Sheer Qorma?

Shabana ji and Divya ma'am are two of my most favourite actors in the industry. Shabana ji is an inspiration for me and she's someone I've always looked upto. So when I heard that they both were going to be in the film, I didn't care what it was about, I knew I wanted to be in it. I was okay if I had one line, I would still go ahead and say it. To share screen space with Shabana ji after ten years of my career, I feel fulfilled. It's a lovely film with great performances and Shabana ji and Divya ma'am are both in great form.

What next on your plate?

I have started shooting for my next film Jahan Chaar Yaar which is a fun story of four housewives from a small town in Uttar Pradesh who decide to take a vacation to Goa. It stars my 'veere' Shikha Talsania, Meher Vij and Pooja Chopra. Fingers crossed, this year I'm also planning to turn producer. There's something I've written and I'm trying to make sure that it goes on the floor. So it's going to be a busy year. ■

RENUKA SHAHANE TALKS ABOUT BEING A DIRECTOR AND SHARES ANECDOTES ABOUT HER CO-STARS AND HER PERSONAL LIFE.

VEDANSHI PATHAK TAKES NOTES

Bossing around on the sets

YOU STARTED YOUR JOURNEY AS A CO-PRESENTER IN DOORDARSHAN'S SURABHI. HOW HAS THE JOURNEY BEEN FROM THEN TILL NOW?

I didn't start my journey with Surabhi, I started with a serial called PC Aur Mausii in 1987 starring Farida Jalal, Pankaj Berry and me. Then I did Circus, Lifeline and then Surabhi came into my life. And I did it for 10 years. I still have viewers coming up to me. They are CEOs of companies and they approach me saying I was their childhood icon. During Lifeline in

My parents used to watch Surabhi and loved it. What they liked most was the ever-smiling anchor Renuka Shahane, who together with Siddharth Kak regaled the viewers for 10 years. The actress made her mark in films with Hum Aapke Hain Koun..! (1994) playing Madhuri Dixit's elder sister. Though strangely, she never capitalised on that success. She married Ashutosh Rana in 2001 and afterwards got busy with her married life. Her sons Shauryaman and Satyendra kept her busy. She did come on and off in TV serials but didn't pursue acting actively. Renuka was seeking different horizons and made her debut in direction with Marathi film Rita (2009). Now a decade later, she has made her directorial debut in Hindi cinema with Tribhanga. She has some fond memories of working with Madhuri Dixit Nene, Salman Khan, Shah Rukh Khan in the past and also of directing Tribhanga. She also speaks of her sepia romance with Ashutosh Rana. Excerpts from an all-heart interview

With hubby Ashutosh Rana

“I NEVER THOUGHT MARRIAGE WOULD SUIT ME SO MUCH BUT IT HAS. AND THE CREDIT GOES TO RANA JI FOR MAKING LIFE SO MUCH BETTER. HE'S ONE OF MY BEST FRIENDS. HE'S VERY INTELLIGENT AND EXTREMELY WELL-READ. WHATEVER I WRITE, HE'S LIKE MY SOUNDING BOARD”

1988 I was also an assistant director to Dr Vijaya Mehta I was her fourth assistant and that's when I developed this interest in direction. After marriage, at the behest of my husband Rana ji (Ashutosh Rana) I started writing screenplays. The first film I directed was the Marathi film Rita (2009) which I adapted from my mother's (Shanta Gokhale) novel Rita Welingkar. In 2013 I was part of Mumbai Mantra's Screenwriters workshop and I wrote a 10 page treatment which later was expanded into Tribhanga. I had named it Tribhanga because I wanted this metaphor where three women from different generations offer three different perspectives about similar things in life.

HOW WAS YOUR EXPERIENCE OF DIRECTING THREE AWESOME ACTORS LIKE KAJOL, TANVI

 KAJOL JUST LOVED THE SCRIPT AND HER CHARACTER ANU...TANVI AND KAJOL HAD ALREADY WORKED TOGETHER IN DUSHMAN. WHEN I NARRATED THE SCRIPT TO TANVI, SHE LOVED THE SCRIPT, SHE LOVED HER CHARACTER SO SHE CAME ON BOARD. MITHILA ALSO LOVED MASHA AS SHE FELT THAT NOBODY ELSE WOULD HAVE CAST HER AS MASHA

With Mithila Palkar and Kajol

AZMI AND MITHILA PALKAR FOR TRIBHANGA AND HOW DID YOU MANAGE TO BRING THEM TOGETHER?

When I approached Kajol for the role of Anu, she just loved the script and her character Anu. And once she stepped into it, everything just fell into place. Tanvi and Kajol had already worked together in Dushman. When I narrated the script to Tanvi, she loved the script, she loved her character so she came on board. Mithila also loved Masha as she felt that nobody else would have cast her as Masha because she's always that chubby little girl next door. Once Kajol was on board, Ajay Devgn also read the script and stepped in as the producer. Then we got Siddharth Malhotra, Banijay Asia, Netflix on board as producers as well. It was like a dream production for me.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF YOURSELF AS MORE – RENUKA THE ACTOR OR RENUKA THE DIRECTOR?

Definitely as a director because I feel I'm more driven as a director than as an actor. As an actor you're dependent on other people. As a director you're doing your own thing. You're the captain of the ship.

HOW DO YOU LOOK BACK AT HUM AAPKE HAIN KOUN..!

I had to give three auditions before they selected me for it. Working with Sooraj ji (Barjatya), Madhuri (Dixit) and Salman (Khan) and Reema ji (Lagoo), Laxmikant Berde was such a beautiful experience. And the amount of fun we had on the sets and the amount of warmth we did the work with, got reflected in the film. Nobody thought it would run for long at that time and it did. It broke all kinds of records. It made me feel powerful, you know.

I could say no to projects at the time when I was getting really good roles.

WHAT'S IT TO HAVE TWO SEASONED ACTORS UNDER THE SAME ROOF? HOW DOES THAT WORK? TELL US ABOUT YOUR JOURNEY OF LOVE WITH ASHUTOSH RANA?

We met at the trial of Hansal Mehta's film Jayate, which never got released but at least we got introduced that day. And after that we kept in touch.

but it has. And the credit for it goes to Rana ji for making life so much better. He's one of my best friends. He's very intelligent and extremely well-read. Whatever I write, he's like my sounding board. Most people think there might be an Abhimaan like situation between us. There is nothing like that because we are completely he's playful on the sets. Shah Rukh is a director's delight. If you tell him to work for 72 hours straight, he will. Every time he comes on the set, he has the same kind of freshness, the same kind of energy and the same kind of passion, which is really what I learnt from him. Because I'm not as driven, and he's a very driven person.

it. I think OTT, is a huge blessing, as we get to see content not only from our country but also from all over the world. And it allows us to put our stories out there for the world to see.

WHICH IS THE ONE SERIES OR FILM WHICH HAS STAYED WITH YOU?

Big Little Lies.
The women's characterisations

All the characters in Andhadhun stayed with me. And recently, Ludo – I liked all the characters in Ludo. I liked the quiriness of the characters I liked the fact that all the men as well as the women are shown with a lot of shades of grey in both Andhadhun and Ludo.

WHO'S YOUR ALL-TIME FAVOURITE

“WORKING WITH SOORAJ JI (BARJATYA), MADHURI (DIXIT) AND SALMAN (KHAN) AND REEMA JI (LAGOO), LAXMIKANT BERDE WAS SUCH A BEAUTIFUL EXPERIENCE. AND THE AMOUNT OF FUN WE HAD ON THE SETS AND THE AMOUNT OF WARMTH WE DID THE WORK WITH, GOT REFLECTED IN THE FILM”

With Madhuri Dixit

With Salman Khan

With Shah Rukh Khan

We were supposed to do a television serial together, so we got talking on the phone and we actually fell in love over the phone. After three months of just talking with each other on the phone, we started dating. The dating then converted into marriage in 2001 after two years. I never thought marriage would suit me so much egoless with each other because like I said – friends don't have ego amongst them.

YOU HAVE WORKED WITH BOTH SALMAN KHAN AND SHAH RUKH KHAN, HOW DIFFERENT IS THEIR WORKING STYLE?

Their style of working is different. Salman is an impulsive, spontaneous sort of an actor. And

WHAT ARE YOUR VIEWS ON THE OTT CONTENT THAT'S BEING MADE THESE DAYS AND WHAT IS ON YOUR WATCH LIST CURRENTLY?

Well I want to watch The White Tiger as I've heard great things about it. I'm a crime fiction fan. So that's always on my watch list – from all over the world – so Spanish, Polish, German – you name it and I have seen many of them in both season 1 and season 2 were awesome. They were women of various shades at various points in their lives, whether marital or work life. It was wonderful to see all those actresses playing those roles and wonderful to see Reese Witherspoon being the producer of that kind of content.

CO-STAR AND WHY?

My all-time favourite co-star is Madhuri Dixit. Because she's wonderful as a human being and so beautiful to see as an actor. Her discipline, her grace, her poise. She's such a huge star but she never throws her weight around. She's just the most delightful co-star to work with.

THE BUTTERFLY EFFECT

is described as a phenomenon whereby a minute localised change in a complex system can have large effects elsewhere. That's what the emergence of OTT platforms has done to the lives of both content creators and viewers. Actors have benefited most from it as now they're being judged on the merit of their performance and not their star value. Manoj Bajpayee, a star performer for the last 20 years, found himself marginalised in movies lately. But he made a resurgence, thanks to the humongous popularity of The Family Man, where he played the title role. He was an unusual choice to play a secret agent but proved to be the show's leading light, thanks to his split-second timing. The second season of the show will start soon and Manoj is understandably excited about it...

You seem ahead of your times. You did short films much before anyone else and won awards for them. Then you jumped on the OTT bandwagon and won the Filmfare Best Actor In A Drama Series (Critics') Award for The Family Man as well...

Thank you very much. When I was in Cannes a couple of years ago to promote Bhonsle, I saw a 20-year-old boy getting mobbed by the French audience. And when I enquired about it, they told me that he is a YouTube star from France. No other Hollywood or French actor got that kind of attention from the audience. So I learnt that this is the way ahead. This is the way the world is spinning these days. My wife kept pushing me to do short films. All of them got so many awards. Looking at the world and the changing patterns, you can realise what's the way forward. This is not rocket science. I just keep my eyes open about every activity and the way the world is responding to it. I have an eye on each and every actor who's working today. All the young actors and how they're experimenting with their performances and how they're reinventing the craft. So you keep changing, reinventing yourself — otherwise, survival would be difficult.

How has the COVID-19 situation changed things for an actor?

Our immediate entertainment source was only cinema earlier. Then the next preference was satellite channels and then OTT. But suddenly because of the pandemic, everyone got locked inside their homes. OTT platforms were already there for people to watch anything and everything from anywhere. That changed the demographics. When people started watching more and more OTT stuff,

LOOK AT THE KIND OF TALENT EMERGING FROM OTT PLATFORMS. I DON'T THINK THEY COULD HAVE GOT JUSTICE IN THE CINEMA HERE. I AM HAPPY THAT THE SCENE HAS CHANGED

Man season 1 was streamed pre-covid. There was no sign of coronavirus back then. It was a massive success. And it was not only a successful show nationally, but it kind of crossed the borders as well. It was a hit even internationally. And the second season, will stream at a time when the cinema halls aren't still fully functional. So you can understand how much the fan base is going to increase. It gives you all the more reasons to be hopeful and optimistic that if The Family Man could be that kind of blockbuster pre-covid, the next season will definitely get higher ratings in today's scenario when cinema halls are reportedly being shut down again.

The Family Man

But would it be as impactful as a film?

It gives you the experience of three films put together. You really dig into the characters and understand every aspect of the story, of the characters. Thinking aloud, I feel the impact would still be the same if it were made as a film because each character is so relatable. If you present the audience with relatable characters, they will take to them no matter what the format is.

they started investing heavily in their own favourite shows, favourite actors and suddenly by the end of nine months, you had a parallel world of entertainment. When theatres were still struggling, this emerged as a viable option even for filmmakers. The audience got exposed to not only different content, but also to content which opened their eyes to different kinds of talent that weren't fully utilised in cinema. Because cinema has its limitations — due to box-office and/or its length. I just hope, even after cinema-life comes back to normal, these new choices made by the audience will continue to flourish.

If The Family Man were made into a film today, would the impact be the same as on the digital platform?

Let me remind you that The Family

A black and white photograph of a man with dark hair, styled back, wearing a dark suit jacket and a light-colored shirt. He is sitting on a ledge or window sill, looking out of a window with blinds. The background is bright and slightly blurred, showing the window blinds and some architectural elements. The man's expression is serious and contemplative.

I AM A GOOD KEEPER OF SECRETS FOR MY FRIENDS. IN MY FRIENDSHIPS, I KEEP
THE SECRETS OF ALL
MY FRIENDS, BUT IF IT IS A SECRET I AM NOT PROUD OF... I ALWAYS
KIND OF WARN THEM

You're shown to be super secretive in The Family Man. Are you like that in your personal life as well?

I am a good keeper of secrets for my friends. In my friendships, I keep the secrets of all my friends, but if it is a secret I am not so proud of... I always kind of warn them. And reprimand them. But you know, the only place where I'm completely myself is with my family. With them I can be both black and white. In that way, I am not Shrikant Tiwari at all.

What can we expect from The Family Man Season 2?

It's far bigger than what came earlier. And it's a lot more intense this time as well. Because Shrikant's life has changed in Season 2. So definitely his relationships are looked at differently. But his quirks, his way of responding to other characters, his way of handling his marriage and his job... at times it's quite baffling and funny — that hasn't changed.

With directors Raj and DK, Samantha Akkineni and Priyamani

SAMANTHA HAS BECOME A BIG STAR BY GIVING IT HER 200 PER CENT BOTH PHYSICALLY AND EMOTIONALLY. SHE DELVED DEEP INTO THE CHARACTER WHILE SHE WAS SHOOTING FOR THE CHALLENGING SEQUENCES. THAT'S COMMENDABLE INDEED

What's your wife's take on The Family Man?

Neha loved it. She was chosen as one of the test audience for the second season. Even I was not allowed by her to watch any episode. She is strict about her responsibility. All she said was that the show is good. She shared her observations directly with Raj and DK. But she loved the series. I hope once she feels a bit free of her responsibility towards Ava, our daughter, she returns to acting. Ava and I will cheer her from the sidelines.

You got to spend a lot of time with Ava during the lockdown...

I haven't seen any child with that much energy. She is like a doll who wakes up and starts moving and never thinks of stopping for a moment after that. Till we are really tired and exhausted in the night and put her to bed. She keeps us busy. She was not allowed to go down and play or meet her friends. But it was good that for the initial four months we were stuck in Uttarakhand and she was hiking and trekking 10 km, 12 km every day with me. So you can imagine the kind of energy that she has. She needs that kind of activity to exhaust her.

Are you loving this phase of your career where you're the protagonist of an action series?

Look at the kind of talent emerging from OTT. I don't think they could have got justice in the cinema here. I am happy that the scene has changed and people are loving the OTT platforms and their content. They are looking forward to the work of good directors and actors. If you ask me, it has come a little late for me per se because I'm not in my 20s today. But at the same time, I am trying to make the most of it. Every day, I keep getting calls from people to be part of their shows. That's where I feel completely grateful and humble. So yeah, it's a fantastic time, we all have our hands full. And I just hope it continues for a long, long time.

are struggling because the masses are still staying away. People are still a little wary of going to the theatres. I just hope they show a lot more enthusiasm. And courage to go to the theatres and not feel fearful. Because I somewhere feel that theatres are safe. They are as safe as flying today. So if they can sit in a flight for two-three hours, why can't they sit in theatres where all the protocols are being followed. Theatre owners are making sure to sanitize the seats, wearing a mask is compulsory and the seating capacity has been reduced to 50 per cent. I think we should go to the theatres. All the medium of entertainment should do well simultaneously.

How was your experience working with Samantha Akkineni in The Family Man?

She started shooting with me in Chennai and then we got pally. She has been very dedicated. She's become a big star by giving it her 200 per cent both

With wife Neha

With Neha and daughter Ava

I JUST KEEP MY EYES OPEN ABOUT EVERY ACTIVITY AND THE WAY THE WORLD IS RESPONDING TO IT. I HAVE AN EYE ON EACH AND EVERY ACTOR WHO'S WORKING TODAY. ALL THE YOUNG ACTORS AND HOW THEY ARE EXPERIMENTING WITH THEIR PERFORMANCES AND HOW THEY ARE REINVENTING THE CRAFT

We don't think age is a hurdle or a barrier in your case...

Definitely not a hurdle. But it doesn't give me the option of playing a 28-year-old guy anymore. All the roles that come to me are of characters who are 35 and above, 45 and above. So yes, that's the only thing. Otherwise, I'm happy. I feel blessed. There are no regrets or complaints. I was just stating a fact.

Will people flock to the theatres again?

Samantha (Akkineni) and I were discussing this. She told me in South India people are filling up the halls to see their favourite stars and films. But in North India especially, for Hindi films, theatres physically and emotionally. She delved deep into the character while she was shooting for the challenging sequences. That's commendable indeed. And even during the promotions, she made sure she had the full attention of the media. I just hope we get to do more stuff together.

Why are you not a part of South cinema? Are you open to doing South films?

Since last October, I have been shooting back to back. There is no breathing space or window to take up another project. And all the last year's commitments have been pushed to this year. It will take me another year before I pick anything else. I am open to doing South films provided they offer me something worthwhile. Let's see.

OTT is a new industry. Is there pay disparity here as well?

I haven't experienced it. I have always been getting a fair amount of compensation for all the work I have done. But yes, I expect better compensation. I don't think there should be any kind of disparity if there is an already established name coming on OTT. It has its own audience base and it has its own market. And at the same time, I would say that whatever the budget allows, you are paid accordingly. And till now I don't have anything to complain about. ■

DIVA OF NAILS
DR. LEENA S.

PHOTOGRAPHY: PRASAD NAIK | MAKEUP: FLORIAN HUREL | HAIR: YIANNI TSAPATORI | STYLIST: MOHIT RAI

Dr. Leena S. is the embodiment of the progressive Indian woman who not only has confidence but also has a lot to show for it. From growing up in Dubai to making it big in India, Dr. Leena S. is a royal diva who has carved a niche for her own beauty brand, The Nail Artistry, a successful chain of salons that specializes in nail art, manicures and pedicures apart from regular beauty procedures.

What sets The Nail Artistry apart is the fact that it is patronised by the likes of the who's who from the worlds of Indian cinema, beauty, glamour and industries. Some of the most prominent names include Karisma Kapoor, Nora Fatehi, Sunny Leone, Nushrat Bharucha, Isha Talwar, Tamannaah, Kajal Aggarwal, Anushka Shetty, Keerthy Suresh, Akshara Haasan, Mamta Mohan, Nazriya Nazim, Rashi Khanna, Sneha Prasanna, Kavya Madhavan, Kushboo Sundar, Aparna Balamurali, Nikki Galrani, Shamna Kasim and Prasanna.

However, celebrity patrons are not that big a deal as the real celebrity here is the brand, The Nail Artistry, which Dr. Leena S. has created. The celebs actually keep coming back because of the world class quality of service at The Nail Artistry salons in Kochi and Chennai, far away from their regular lives, which is a remarkable feat in itself.

With her first salon, Dr. Leena S. wanted people to experience the therapeutic capabilities of manicure and pedicure and how they help relax one's body and mind. But she wanted the focus to be on the services and not on her. She wanted to make sure that her idea will be appreciated because of the quality of service by the people who visited The Nail Artistry and not because she was the force behind it.

"I did not want to start The Nail Artistry from a place like Delhi or Mumbai where people would compare us to regular salons. Our focus was completely different and I wanted to gauge if my business idea can really make a difference to the people who would spend money on it. In a place like Kochi, it was only our brand philosophy and quality of services that mattered. I reckoned that if The Nail Artistry proves to be good enough and got accepted by the people in Kochi, I could say that my business idea really had merit. So, it was kind of a test and it proved to be the right thing to do," shares Dr. Leena S.

With the kind of high profile clients that The Nail Artistry salons in Kochi and Chennai attract and the quality of services and attention they get, it is no wonder that the locals also flock to the premium abodes of luxurious beauty routines. Conceptualised and initiated by Dr. Leena S., a visionary woman entrepreneur, The Nail Artistry has been growing at a phenomenal pace over the last few years.

"Everyone deserves a good manicure and pedicure routine once in a while to keep them free of stress. I have instilled a culture in my team to understand the needs and preferences of our patrons and make sure that they all get the care they deserve. Our patrons, of course, appreciate the attention to details and the fact that The Nail Artistry team values little things about their routines and provides them with excellent services," says Dr. Leena S.

Dr. Leena S. trained to be a dentist but realised that she can touch many lives and help many more people being an entrepreneur and therefore, she established 'The Nail Artistry'. Her passion for nails and her belief in the therapeutic abilities of a manicure and pedicure led her to come up with the ingenious idea of setting up an exclusive salon that will specialize in nail art, manicures and pedicures. What's remarkable is that she took this idea and turned into a viable business that is highly successful and thriving.

"I know from experience that having a good manicure or pedicure is far more relaxing than anything else after a stressful day. I realised it could be a viable business idea. Our first The Nail Artistry salon was India's first super luxury nail art salon located in Kochi, Kerala. We created a unique space specially for Nail Art lovers. The idea was to showcase the customer's persona through their nails. With the state of the art interiors and extremely well trained staff, The Nail Artistry offered an exclusive experience of a unique kind and soon became famous," says Dr. Leena S.

Coming to think of it, the idea of Dr. Leena S. is definitely unique. It is, in fact, true that most people spend their lives taking good care of their families and even friends but simply ignore their own well being. The fact that they also need pampering that they shower upon their loved ones is an idea that simply escapes their minds.

"Things picked up slowly but surely and the people in Kochi loved what The Nail Artistry had to offer. What more, they kept coming back. And the word-of-mouth publicity generated by the patrons gave the business a real boost within the first year itself. From then on, it's been an ongoing journey that has earned me much respect and recognition and I am so thankful to everyone for their support and appreciation for The Nail Artistry," reminisces Dr. Leena S.

But as is true for every entrepreneur, Dr. Leena S. has had to work hard to prove that The Nail Artistry was an idea whose time had come. What is also remarkable and really sets The Nail Artistry apart from its competitors is the fact that Dr. Leena S. believes that competition is irrelevant for them. She believes that what they do at The Nail Artistry is special and unique and while others might try to copy, they can never have the absolute focus that The Nail Artistry has.

"Most regular salons miss out on the nuances of a professional manicure or pedicure. They treat them just as a part of their routine while at The Nail Artistry, this is what we super-specialise in. We're India's first super luxury nail salon and our focus is altogether on a different level. No regular salon can even come close to the unparalleled quality of service at The Nail Artistry," emphasises Dr. Leena S.

Because of the pandemic, The Nail Artistry has a sharpened focus on safety and hygiene while ensuring a luxe experience for its clientele. The Nail Artistry salons follow elaborate safety measures and strict hygiene protocols and procedures that only big hospitals follow. The Nail Artistry salons have their own autoclave machines to sterilize instruments that are used and all the manicure and pedicure pods are disinfected after every session.

"All our clients draw confidence from our efforts and it has helped us a great deal in pulling them all back to our salons for their nails and beauty routines, says" Dr. Leena S.

Needless to say, under the able leadership of Dr. Leena S., The Nail Artistry has been growing at a phenomenal rate. The warm response to the first salon in Kochi, Kerala, enthused her to open up the 2nd salon in Chennai, Tamil Nadu. In the coming few months, Dr. Leena S. plans to open new The Nail Artistry salons in the cities of Las Vegas, USA and Dubai, UAE. She also wishes to expand in India with new salons at Hyderabad, Bangalore and Goa too.

"I truly believe that the industry has immense potential and its best phase is yet to come. What has gradually changed over the last couple of decades is that more and more people, especially youngsters, have started to take themselves very seriously. They value their appearance and spend time and money to look and feel good. You can see so many of them regularly visiting gyms, health clubs, and high-end salons, which used to be a rarity just a decade ago.," concludes Dr. Leena S.

Seeing the success of The Nail Artistry and the vision that Dr. Leena S. has for the brand, it won't be an exaggeration to say that she is indeed the Royal Diva of Nails! ■

MOMMY'S DAY OUT

Kareena Kapoor Khan may have given birth to her second son just three months ago but her recovery rate is phenomenal. She's back in shape and back to work in no time. Gone are the days when heroines disappeared into obscurity after motherhood. Now they roll back their sleeves and come back to the arena roaring for more, remarkably soon...

KAREENA KAPOOR KHAN SHARES A GLIMPSE OF HER SECOND BABY ON THE OCCASION OF INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S DAY

Ever since Kareena Kapoor Khan gave birth to her second kid, her fans have been waiting with bated breath to catch a glimpse of the newborn. On International Women's Day, the actress finally showed us a glimpse of her second baby. Kareena shared a picture where she's holding her baby in her arms. This monochrome picture is all heart. Her caption reads, "There's nothing women can't do. Happy Women's Day my loves." Now that strong message and the lovely click along with it, sums up the spirit of this special day. Kareena has time and again proved that neither marriage nor pregnancy can stop a woman achieving new heights in her career.

Amitabh Bachchan goes for his eye surgery

Amitabh Bachchan has been in the industry for several decades now. The megastar has been entertaining the audience with some great content over the years and has given Indian cinema characters to remember forever. Big B, as he is lovingly called, has great projects coming up too. From Jhund to Brahmastra, the actor will be seen playing interesting roles in all his upcoming films. However, the actor hasn't been well physically for some time now. After battling COVID-19 last year, this year he had an eye surgery. He even posted a poem about the same on his blog. He wrote, "I am without sight, but sightless not in my path, I am without convenience, but never inconvenienced.. I have sweet company, of them that caress me; they that court me, around in decorated best, be in good health, have I received abundant love, a gracious opulent heart, doth blossom with gratitude ... for some time I am but time bound now, for the prayers I get I am folded hands bound yes folded hands bound... ever folded hands bound". After his surgery, he tweeted a motivational message saying, "Just because we are struggling doesn't mean we are failing." He really is an epitome of both fortitude and motivation, alright.

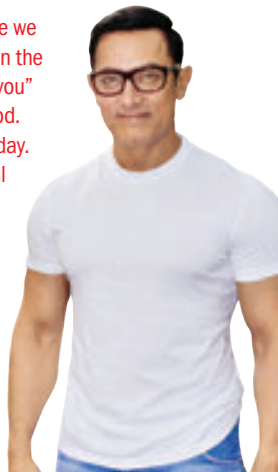

ALIA BHATT AND VARUN DHAWAN TO REUNITE FOR ANOTHER DULHANIA FILM?

Alia Bhatt and Varun Dhawan began their career together in 2012, with Student Of The Year. The duo was then seen together in a few more films like Humpty Sharma Ki Dulhania, Badrinath Ki Dulhania and Kalank. The Dulhania series surely worked well for the stars as both the films were a huge success. On the fourth anniversary of Badrinath Ki Dulhania, Alia, Varun and the director of the film Shashank Khaitan caught up over a video call. However, what caught our attention was that the director as well as both the actors captioned the picture hinting at a collaboration once again. All three of them said that they were secretly busy discussing Dulhania 3. Well if they were serious or just getting their fans excited is something we'll only get to know with time. Fingers crossed!

AAMIR KHAN QUILTS SOCIAL MEDIA

Aamir Khan is hardly ever active on social media. Almost every update we get about the actor is from his fan pages or from other stars working on the same projects with him. Now, on his birthday, after a flurry of "thank you" posts on Twitter, the actor said that he's giving up social media for good. "Hey guys, thank you so much for all the love and warmth on my birthday. My heart is full. In other news, this is going to be my last post on social media. Considering that I'm SO active anyway, I have decided to drop the pretence," he wrote. However, fans needn't worry as the actor has announced a separate handle where they can interact with him.

"We will continue to communicate as we did before. In addition, AKP has created its official channel! So, future updates on me and my films can be found there. Here's the official handle - @akppl_official. Lots of love, always," he added. Come back Aamir, we miss you already

WE HEAR THAT RANVEER SINGH'S CIRKUS WILL HAVE A SPECIAL DANCE NUMBER BY DEEPIKA PADUKONE. THE FILM IS BEING DIRECTED BY ROHIT SHETTY AND SOURCES CLAIM THAT DEEPIKA MIGHT HAVE ALREADY SHOT FOR THE SONG WHICH HAS BEEN PUT TOGETHER ON A GRAND SCALE. NOW WE CAN'T WAIT TO SEE THIS ONE.

AYUSHMANN KHURRANA -TAHIRA KASHYAP CELEBRATE TWENTY YEARS OF TOGETHERNESS

Ayushmann Khurrana and his wife, Tahira Kashyap celebrated 20 years of togetherness recently. The couple had been dating since 12th grade. Tahira shared a lovely video to commemorate the occasion. The actor jokingly stated that Tahira ruined his chances of becoming a doctor. "This girl was solely responsible for my bad scores in class 12 boards. We decided to date just before our chemistry exam. Had terrible ranks in PMT and CET exams as well. Thank you @tahirakashyap for ruining my attempt to be a doctor. No no it's not your fault, I'm just a bad multi-tasker and you on the other hand were so good with it. It was the year 2001, when we heard Bryan Adams' Inside Out on loop, cassette ghis gayi thi. We were also afraid ki parallel line se parents phone na utha lein. Aaj do dashak ho gaye. Now you'll ask me what's a dashak? Go figure out! Happy anniv. Umm," Khurrana wrote. Sweet!

ANUSHKA SHARMA TO OPEN AN ANIMAL SHELTER NEXT YEAR

Anushka Sharma has been a champion for animal rights for years now. She has also constantly advocated that we amend our laws against animal cruelty and implement stricter punishment for such crimes. Anushka often spoke about her dream of building an animal shelter on the outskirts of Mumbai. Looks like that dream will come true soon. A well-placed source says, "If all things go as per plan, her shelter will be ready for operations sometime next year! Work on the shelter has resumed again after the coronavirus pandemic had forced all operations to be temporarily postponed. Anushka wants to build a state of the art animal shelter, a first of its kind in India and she is leaving no stone unturned to ensure this happens." That's wonderful news indeed.

AND IT'S OFFICIAL! KRITI SANON OPPOSITE PRABHAS IN ADIPURUSH

Ever since Om Raut announced his mega budget film Adipurush, the media and the industry had been waiting with bated breath to know its female lead. We were the first one to tell you that Kriti Sanon has been in talks with the team. Recently the makers made the news official. Director Om Raut took to his Twitter and shared a lovely picture with his Adipurush team. In the clip we see him posing with Prabhas, Kriti Sanon and Sunny Singh. He captioned this picture saying, 'Welcoming @kritisanon and @mesunnysingh to the #Adipurush family.' Now while Kriti Sanon plays Sita in this adaptation of Adipurush, it looks like Sunny Singh will play the role of the loyal brother Lakshman. Kriti Sanon who is ecstatic about the news, tweeted saying, 'This one is too special.. Proud, honoured and beyond Excited to be a part of this magical world..' She further tweeted the pictures from her own account and said, 'A new journey begins.. One of my most special ones.. overwhelmed to be a part of #Adipurush.' Looks like the actress is truly overwhelmed to be part of this one. And why not, after all Adipurush has been the talk-of-the-town project ever since its inception. Moreover with Prabhas doing his first pan-India film and marking his debut in Bollywood, this one is surely one of the most anticipated films in the coming year.

KARTIK AARYAN AND KRITI SANON TO TEAM UP AGAIN?

LAST YEAR THE NEWS WAS OUT THAT ROHIT DHAWAN IS ALL SET TO REMAKE THE HIT ALLU ARJUN FILM ALA VAIKUNTHAPURRAMULOO WITH KARTIK AARYAN IN THE LEAD ROLE. DUE TO THE PANDEMIC, THE FILM WAS DELAYED BUT THE REMAKE IS STILL ON CARDS. ACCORDING TO REPORTS ON AN ONLINE PORTAL, WE HEAR THAT KRITI SANON HAS BEEN IN TALKS WITH THE MAKERS FOR THIS REMAKE. THE ACTRESS APPARENTLY HAS LOVED THE SCRIPT AND THE MONIES HAVE ALSO BEEN WORKED OUT BUT THE ACTRESS' BUSY DIARY IS AN ISSUE RIGHT NOW. KRITI SANON IS CURRENTLY SHOOTING FOR VARUN DHAWAN STARRER BHEDIYA AND THEN SHE WILL MOVE ONTO THE MAGNUM OPUS ADIPURUSH WITH PRABHAS. KARTIK AARYAN'S FILM ROLLS OUT IN JUNE, HENCE THE ACTRESS IS TRYING TO SHUFFLE HER DATES. REPORTS ALSO SUGGEST THAT APART FROM KRITI, TWO OTHER ACTRESSES ARE ALSO IN TALKS FOR THIS ONE. NOW LET'S SEE WHO'S THE LUCKY GAL TO ROMANCE KARTIK AARYAN.

VARUN DHAWAN TO PLAY A SEXY WEREWOLF IN BHEDIYA?

Varun Dhawan's energy has always been infectious. He's also known to experiment with his roles and reports suggest that viewers are in for a surprise in his next. The actor has started shooting for his new titled Bhediya and he is already giving us beastly vibes. Varun took to his social media and shared a video where we see him on an aircraft. And his team is egging him on to howl like a wolf. Bhediya is his first horror-comedy and he's super kicked about it. The film is produced by Dinesh Vujan. It's the third film by the makers in this genre after Stree (2018) and Roohi (2021). Stree and Roohi both have a female lead related to the myth of a ghost and a witch respectively. This time around they are going ahead with beast horror. The film is directed by Amar Kaushik of Stree fame.

AKSHAY KUMAR FINDS HIS LEADING LADIES FOR HIS NEXT RAM SETU

Nushratt Bharuccha and Jacqueline Fernandez have been signed in for Ram Setu opposite Akshay Kumar. The film will go on floors mid this year. This is the first time Akshay Kumar and Nushratt will work together and it will be an interesting pair up. Jacqueline and Akshay on the other hand, have done several films together like Housefull 2 and Housefull 3, Brothers and Bachchan Pandey. Akshay Kumar is currently wrapping up the shoot for Bachchan Pandey in Jaipur. He has shot for the film since mid-January and wants to quickly finish this film and move on to his next. The film's leading ladies Kriti Sanon and Jacqueline have finished their Jaipur schedule and even shared their respective looks from the film. Apart from Ram Setu, Akshay Kumar has Raksha Bandhan and Prithiviraj Chauhan up for release.

FATIMA SANA SHAIKH TO STAR IN THE REMAKE OF HIT TAMIL FILM ARUVI

FATIMA SANA SHAIKH HAS BEEN ROPED IN FOR THE REMAKE OF THE HIT TAMIL FILM ARUVI. THE FILM WAS A SMASH HIT DOWN SOUTH BECAUSE OF ITS UNIQUE CONTENT AND LEAD ACTRESS ADITI BALAN'S FABULOUS PERFORMANCE. THE FILM REVOLVES AROUND A WOMAN WHO DECIDES TO RISE ABOVE THE SOCIETY AND ITS MALE-DOMINATED WORLD. THE HINDI VERSION WILL HAVE FATIMA STEP INTO THE LEAD'S SHOES. SPEAKING ABOUT HER ROLE, FATIMA SAID, "I AM THRILLED TO DO THE ARUVI REMAKE, AND AM LOOKING FORWARD TO DIVING DEEP INTO THE CHARACTER."

KANGANA RANAUT DOES SOME INTENSE ARMY TRAINING FOR TEJAS

Kangana Ranaut has a knack for going the extra mile for her films. Whether it is putting extra hours at the shoot, gaining weight, doing her own stunts or even prepping for a role with some intense training, the actress always slays her performances. Kangana recently took to her Instagram to share her prep for her upcoming film Tejas. In this short video, we see her doing some intense army training. Kangana even captioned the picture where she says no matter what people say or do to her, she will soar. She captioned the video saying, "Jealous crabs will always try and pull us down but we must rise higher and higher!!." Kangana had recently taken to social media to give a shoutout to her Tejas director, Sarvesh Mewara who is making his directorial debut with the film. Kangana plays an Air Force officer in Tejas and we are super kicked about it.

KATRINA KAIF AND SALMAN KHAN TRAIN WITH INTERNATIONAL STUNT ARTISTES

One of the biggest hit franchises for Salman Khan and Katrina Kaif is the Tiger series. After Ek Tha Tiger (2012) and Tiger Zinda Hai (2017), the makers are going to be back with Tiger 3 and the leads are going all out preparing for the action sequences. We hear that Katrina Kaif has a South Korean stunt artiste to prepare her for the action flick. Salman Khan on the other hand has a South African stunt team to prepare him for the action. Now we're sure that this team is going to blow our minds off with their action-packed flick. Tiger 3 is being directed by Maneesh Sharma. The directors have always changed for this franchise. While the first part was helmed by Kabir Khan, the second was directed by Ali Abbas Zafar. The film has Emraan Hashmi in a negative role and there are rumours that Shah Rukh Khan in his character from Pathan or Hrithik Roshan in his War avatar, might have a cameo in this one.

HARSHITA SHEKHAR GAUR

X FACTOR: LOVE FOR THE CRAFT

Born and raised in Delhi, Harshita never planned to join the glamour world.

It just happened. After studying engineering, she decided to give acting a try and auditioned for Channel V's Sadda Haq on a whim. She got selected and her debut role was a hit amongst the millennials.

There's been no looking back ever since. She was quick to get projects like Mirzapur, Kanpuriya and Sacred Games and soon developed a decent fan-following. An ardent lover of the craft, she looks up to late Irrfan Khan's and Tabu's work for inspiration. Ask her about the two roles she'd like to play and she chooses Tabu's character in Chandni Bar and Villanelle from Killing Eve. Apart from acting and modelling, Harshita is a trained Kathak dancer and is now learning to play the flute.

PRECIOUS COMMODITY

AMOL PARASHAR IS SLOWLY MAKING A NAME FOR HIMSELF ON THE OTT CIRCUIT.
ANALITA SETH INTERVIEWS THE RETICENT ACTOR

Amol Parashar is an IIT graduate. He started doing theatre in college and fell in love with the process. After his graduation, while he did grab a high-paying corporate job, his heart wouldn't commit to the corporate rat race. He decided to take a break from his job to pursue theatre professionally, which led to more opportunities, including ads and films.

He played Ranbir Kapoor's friend in Rocket Singh: Salesman Of The Year (2009). Though his work got appreciated, offers were still hard to come by. He did act in films like Babloo Happy Hai (2014), Dombivli Return (2014), Mili (2015) and Traffic (2016). The same year, he cut his teeth on the OTT circuit with TVF Tripling and since then there has been no looking back as far as the OTT is concerned. Ask him what he finds more difficult, working in films versus working in a web series and he goes all serious saying that the medium shouldn't concern an actor. "My job is to give my best to every role, irrespective of where it's getting aired. The length or the treatment might defer but essentially an actor's job is to be as truthful to his role as he can be," he asserts.

He felt no qualms when his film Dolly Kitty Aur Woh Chamakte Sitare, which was to get released in cinemas, got released on OTT because of the pandemic. "I was born of the digital space. For me it's my hometown. It's true that when I signed it, it was supposed to have a theatrical release but none of it changes the fact that we all gave it our best. I found out that the film was released in 193 countries digitally and it was accessible to millions. Maybe this wouldn't have been the case with a theatrical release. Also, my audience has been watching me on digital platforms so it's better for me. People didn't have to go to the theatre and wonder who's this new guy."

The film got a fair share of flak because a certain section of the audience felt that it depicted women as having loose morals. He shakes his head at that and says today we have a problem with everything, even with a women-centric film that talks about women empowerment. "We are starting to call things sensitive because some people are getting sensitive. There are people who might like or dislike it but they don't get sensitive about it. If we keep saying it's sensitive, we are manipulating their outlook towards the film or show," he reflects.

Currently, there is a huge hue and cry over censoring OTT content. Amol wonders why it's so.

He explains that you have to consciously use the remote to reach the content you want. "So if someone doesn't want to watch a particular programme, then he/she just shouldn't pick up the remote. It's that simple. No one is forcing them. The platforms also categorise content as violent or sexual in nature for the viewers to make their own choices," he reasons.

Amol's latest show on

Aapkey Kamrey Main Koi Rehta Hai

I FOUND OUT THAT DOLLY KITTY AUR WOCHAMAKTE SITARE WAS RELEASED IN 193 COUNTRIES DIGITALLY AND IT WAS ACCESSIBLE TO MILLIONS. MAYBE THIS WOULDN'T HAVE BEEN THE CASE WITH A THEATRICAL RELEASE. ALSO, MY AUDIENCE HAS BEEN WATCHING ME ON DIGITAL PLATFORMS SO IT'S BETTER FOR ME

Netflix, Aapkey Kamrey Main Koi Rehta Hai (AKMKRH) also stars his Tripling co-star Sumeet Vyas, and Swara Bhasker. The show has paranormal elements in it, involving Swara Bhasker. Amol says there is no difference between Swara's reel life and real life personas. "She is who she is. There is no difference in the Swara you see in person or in interviews. She's a bulldozer who bulldozes through people and it's fun. Unfiltered, unabashed and unpretentious, she doesn't behave in a way people expect her too. Sometimes we have to remind her that she's famous so a little sophistication will help."

Ask him to reveal whether he felt closer to Chitvan from Tripling or to Kavi from AKMKRH and he goes into Zen mode once again. "I feel the more you tell yourself I'm a lot like a character, you start to limit yourself to those traits. So when a different character is given to you, you start to stress about what all preparation needs to go into it. I try not to create such self boundaries," quips he, Yoda-like.

He's all set to play Bhagat Singh in Shoojit Sircar's Sardar Udham Singh, starring Vicky Kaushal. He's keeping his fingers crossed on that. He doesn't want to reveal much about the future. Says he, "My only criteria is that I should enjoy myself doing a role. If that's met, I'm happy." For someone who's just about taking baby steps in showbiz, he sure knows his mind. ■

VEDANSHI PATHAK TALKS TO YOGITA BIHANI, THE TELEVISION STAR WHO MADE HER FILM DEBUT WITH AK VS AK

After graduating from Delhi University in computer science, Yogita Bihani took the corporate route to middle-class happiness. After working for an year in Delhi, she moved to Mumbai for better prospects. Her foray into the world of glamour happened in 2018, when she shot an ad for Dus Ka Dum with Salman Khan. Ekta Kapoor reportedly noticed her and offered her a role in the serial Dil Hi Toh Hai (2018), which turned her into a household name. She considers Salman her lucky mascot as thanks to the ad she got instant exposure. Talking about the experience she says, "Shooting with Salman sir was a magical experience. The minute he would enter the set it would light up, his aura would take over. At first I was nervous but then it only got better, he made me feel extremely comfortable."

One day Anil Kappor sir told me that he was talking about my work with his daughter Rhea and son Harshwardhan. That made my day, I felt extremely happy on her theatre training to pull through. "I've no experience with kids except for the interaction I've had with my nephews and nieces." My instructors in theatre told me that as an actor it's my job to do any role I get with conviction and remembering that I just went with the flow," she muses. She maintains that pursuing acting wasn't her dream growing up or even a long-term goal initially. However once she was into it, she started liking the process of being an actor. And the more she delved in it, the more she liked what she was doing. She decided to push her limits and liked the outcome. "I decided I should continue to put my best and perfect my art, with every character I played, as an artiste it added more to my calibre and since then there has been no looking back," asserts the actress.

Yogita was recently seen in Vikramaditya Motwane's Netflix original AK v/s AK where she played the character of a cinematographer who's also Anurag Kashyap's assistant and who has to endure a lot because of Kashyap's maverick ways in the film. Yogita enjoyed the complexities that came with the role

"My experience of working with Anurag sir has been extremely enriching. As you know I was not only acting in the movie but I was also shooting the movie he was making in the film. He had full faith in me and he knew with a bit of camera training I would be able to live up to his expectation. At first I wasn't sure if I would be able to manage such a huge camera while legends like Anil Kapoor were in front of it. You don't want to mess anything up," she confesses. Her day of reckoning came when they were shooting an eight minute long take. She was in tears as she thought she wouldn't be able to do it. That's when Kashyap calmed her down and told her he had every confidence in her ability. "I actually managed to finish the shot perfectly. It was a scene where glass was to be crushed and we only had one sheet. Thankfully, I managed to capture that without any mistake. It was a day where I conquered my fear," she reflects.

While Anurag Kashyap and director Vikramaditya Motwane had faith in her, it was Anil Kapoor who felt she was ill-suited for the role and felt she wouldn't be able to do justice to the twin responsibilities. She was unfrazzled by this lack of trust from the senior actor and went about her work quietly. It took time but Anil did come to appreciate her later on. "One day he told me that he was talking about my work with his daughter Rhea and son Harshwardhan. That made my day, I felt extremely happy. On the sets Anil sir is extremely professional, very warm, always full of new ideas and suggestions," she gushes.

The starlet is buzzing with enthusiasm post the critical success of the film and wishes to work with the likes of Imtiaz Ali, Zoya Akhtar and Sriram Raghavan. Though she wants her next stop to be Bollywood after trying her hand at television and the digital space, she's wise enough to know a meaty role trumps the medium. She says as an actor she's open to everything from films, TV to digital space. "As an artiste the character I play is more important for me than the platform. If I'm good it'll be appreciated irrespective of the medium. "The more work you do, the better you become. My only worry is that I shouldn't be typecast. Barring that, I'm open to anything and everything." ■
